

SEVENTY - FIRST ANNUAL REPORT

MOUNT SINAI
HOSPITAL

CITY OF NEW YORK

FOR THE YEAR 1923

HISTORICAL NOTE

The Mount Sinai Hospital was organized and incorporated in 1852 for "benevolent, charitable and scientific purposes." The Hospital's first building was a small private dwelling in 28th Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, which accommodated 28 patients. In 1871 the Hospital completed and occupied, at Lexington Avenue, 66th and 67th Streets, a building having a capacity of 200 beds. At this time the Out Patient Department was inaugurated.

The Mount Sinai Training School for Nurses, in affiliation with the Hospital, was incorporated March, 1881.

In 1893 the Pathological Department was established and a small laboratory was equipped for its use.

The cornerstone of the group of ten hospital buildings occupying the block bounded by Fifth and Madison Avenues, 100th and 101st Streets, was laid May 22nd, 1901, and the buildings were completed and occupied March 15th, 1904.

The work of the Social Service Department was begun in 1907.

In 1910 the Out-Patient Building was altered from a three-story to a five-story building, and the Nurses' Home from a six-story to an eight-story building. At the same time the present Isolation Wards were erected. Roof wards for out-door treatment were erected on the Medical and Surgical Pavilions in 1912.

In 1913, the erection of seven additional buildings south of 100th Street was begun; the last three buildings of the new group, namely, the Private Pavilion, the Children's Pavilion, and the Auditorium, were completed and occupied in the spring of 1922.

The Hospital now has accommodations for 650 patients, not including 19 beds in the Receiving Ward.

Minutes of the Annual Meeting of the Members of
THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL OF THE CITY OF
NEW YORK

HELD MARCH 9th, 1924

A quorum being present, the Acting President, Mr. Leo Arnstein, called the meeting to order.

On motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the reading of the minutes of the annual meeting, held March 25th, 1923, and the reading of the Treasurer's report were dispensed with. The Acting President then presented the annual report, which, on motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, was ordered printed and sent to the members of the Hospital.

Dr. George David Stewart, President of the Academy of Medicine, addressed the meeting on "The Hospital of Today."

Due notice having been given, the following amendment to Article VI of the Constitution was submitted by the Board of Trustees for adoption and approval by the members:

"At the first meeting of the Board of Trustees, held after each annual meeting, they shall elect from their own membership, by a majority vote, the following officers, who are to serve for a term of one year, or until their successors have been elected:

"A President

"A Vice-President

"A Second Vice-President

"A Third Vice-President

"A Treasurer, and

"A Secretary."

On motion duly made and seconded, the above amendment was unanimously carried.

The Acting President announced that the election of Trustees would take place, and those qualified to vote would find a ballot box in the adjoining room.

On motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the meeting adjourned.

DEWITT MILLHAUSER,
Secretary.

TRUSTEES ELECTED

March 9th, 1924.

At an election held this day, the following were elected

AUSTIN J. SHONEKE,

Secretary to Inspectors.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

During the year 1923 we have made another important step forward in the carrying out of the larger Mount Sinai Hospital program by opening the former Children's Pavilion to its new uses, the care of nervous, and stomach and intestinal cases. In this building, now called the North Ward, to which important additions were made, there have been established after very long delay the Joseph and Sophia Sachs Memorial Wards, endowed by the Messrs. Samuel and Harry Sachs, constituting the neurological service of the Hospital, and the Charles A. Wimpfheimer Wards for the surgical treatment of diseases of the stomach and intestines, in both of which departments advanced clinical work is being done.

The completion of the plan of development announced more than ten years ago requires the construction of a new Training School and the changing of the old Private Pavilion into a semi-private ward building for paying patients. We have purchased additional property on the south side of 99th Street. This gives us a plot of 100 feet on Fifth Avenue and 300 feet on 99th Street, sufficient for the erection of a school to train and house not less than 400 nurses with all the necessary room for educational and recreational purposes, leaving at the disposal of the Hospital a fair-sized plot of ground for future needs, which we consider an indispensable reserve.

To those not fully conversant with the scope of an institution like ours, it has appeared at times as if we had gone too far in the acquisition of property, but we are of the opinion that if we have erred at all it is on the other side. Mount Sinai is today an institution of such magnitude, and its plant represents so great an expenditure that it is safe to say that it will remain for generations in its present location. As the neighborhood is being rapidly improved with costly structures, it would be a mistaken policy not to acquire for ourselves, or for our successors, a reserve of the vacant land adjoining our buildings which may easily be required in the future for purposes which cannot at this moment be defined.

Experience has shown us that the space required to take care of a given number of patients, and for the study of disease, is constantly increasing. Our old buildings on Lexington Avenue comprised about 6,000 cubic feet of building space per patient for all hospital purposes; we now have 14,000 cubic feet, and it is probable that within another decade a further proportionate increase of space will be required. It is true that some hospitals use less space, but careful investigation will show that the equipment of such hospitals is of an inferior character.

While we await a favorable opportunity to start the construction of the new Nurses' Home, we may not be able to commence building operations before 1926, as title to some of the property that we have bought may not be transferred to us before then. We deeply regret the unavoidable delay in recapturing the old Private Pavilion for clinical uses, for an addition to the present number of semi-private beds is a pressing need. The waiting list for admission to our semi-private wards, which now have a capacity of only 24 beds, is usually greater than the number of patients occupying these wards.

We are able to report for 1923 a very considerable increase in service rendered to the community over the previous year. The average number of patients has risen from 424 to 505, the maximum of patients on any one day from 474 to 578, and the number of Hospital days from 154,842 to 183,863. We have no hesitation in stating that it is not only the quantity of service which has increased, but that its quality is of a higher standard than ever before attained in this institution. Conscientious efforts to obtain free consent for postmortem examinations in fatal cases have resulted in increasing the average of such examinations for 1923 to 63 per cent. against 56 per cent. in 1921 and 1922; and this we regard a notable gain for scientific medicine. Improvement in the quality of the Hospital's clinical and nursing work do not readily lend themselves to statistical measurement, but they are none the less obvious to those who are in close touch with our activities. We take pride in the continuance of our time-honored practice of providing, at the Hospital's expense, special or individual graduate nursing care for very sick ward patients.

Last year's report recorded the final steps in the reorganization of the medical and surgical staffs of the Hospital, the outstanding feature of which was the consolidation of the out-patient and in-patient staffs. This year we began to develop a program in medical education which the Trustees have had in mind ever since the time when there was written into the constitution of the Hospital the declaration of our intention "to afford to students of medicine the opportunity to acquire a practical knowledge of the art and science of medicine."

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

In any hospital in which disease is carefully investigated and treatment thoughtfully given, there is a certain educational by-product, and in this sense medical education has been going on in Mount Sinai Hospital for generations, but it was not until the past year that the formal teaching of graduates in medicine who are not members of the staff was undertaken. No sooner was the Hospital in a position to take up this work than an invitation to begin teaching was extended to us by Columbia University, and on October 15, 1923, a series of six-weeks' courses for qualified graduates in medicine was inaugurated with the co-operation of Columbia University's Administrative Board on Graduate Studies in Medicine, of which Dean Darrach, of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, is Chairman. The first series of courses included lectures and demonstrations on the diagnosis and therapy of diseases of the gastro-intestinal tract, radiography of the gastro-intestinal tract, practical dietetics, practical hematology, blood transfusions, diseases of the circulatory system, diseases of the chest, diseases of metabolism, and disorders of the involuntary nervous system. In addition to these special courses, general medical clinics were conducted by Drs. Brill and Libman. To quote briefly from the University's official announcement:

"This series of courses, given at Mount Sinai Hospital, is designed to cover both general and special branches of internal medicine in as extensive a manner as is possible in the brief period of six weeks. For those who take the complete series, it will include a review of the modern advances in clinical medicine and of important technical procedures such as electro-cardiography, clinical calorimetry, methods of blood transfusion, etc. These courses, therefore, furnish an opportunity to general practitioners, as well as to physicians who have been concentrating upon one special branch of medicine, to keep abreast with the recent progress in the general field of internal medicine."

The success of these courses is attested by full registration up to the prearranged limits, by the close attention given to the work by the physicians who enrolled, and by the fact that a considerable proportion of the men who took the course have already registered for the Spring course which follows. It is of interest to note that, whereas the physicians who attended the first courses came from New York, New Jersey, and nearby places, the course which is now about to open has had applications from as far west as Missouri, Nebraska, from Philadelphia and from several up-state New York towns. Graduate teaching has now been extended to the Department of Pediatrics, under Dr. Schick, and it will gradually be introduced in other clinical departments.

Valuable as this teaching work is conceded to be, objections to it would doubtless be raised if the burden of its support fell upon Federation. The fact is, however, that this teaching is undertaken by members of the staff at a rate of compensation which is far from adequate, and that even the small allowances which the instructors receive are paid not by the Hospital but by the University out of students' fees, and that for the incidental expenses of the courses there is available the income from a Fund for Medical Education, which was inaugurated last year by a gift of $25,000 from Mr. Joseph F. Cullman, and which has since been augmented by a legacy of $25,000 from Mr. H. P. Goldschmidt. A secretary for medical instruction, who is in immediate charge of registration and of other executive matters, has been placed under the direction of a Committee on Medical Instruction of the Medical Board. The Secretary for Medical Instruction has also taken charge of the Medical Library established years ago in honor of Dr. Abraham Jacobi, which has heretofore failed to receive the attention that it merits, but which, it is hoped, will now thrive under watchful care, and will become an adequate reference library not only for graduate students, but for the members of the resident staff, now numbering 45 physicians.

For some years the Hospital has experienced a need of radium and of modern high-voltage X-ray machines. In October, the Board gratefully accepted the offer of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Rosenfeld to equip a department of radiotherapy and to purchase radium out of the Rosenfeld Trust Fund now amounting to $65,532.02, and accordingly a Department of Radium and Radiotherapy, to be known as the Florette and Ernst Rosenfeld Foundation, was established. Imported high-voltage power machines of the very best type have since been purchased and installed. The purchase of radium will follow, and before the Summer it is expected that the combined Department of Radium and Radiotherapy will be in full operation.

The equipment of the X-ray museum, the first museum of its kind to be established in New York City, has been completed; the equipment of the museum is the gift of Mr. Walter W. Naumburg.

While, under the rules of the Hospital, Dr. Howard Lilienthal was automatically transferred from the active to the consulting surgical staff last year, the fact that he was then engaged in the important task of developing the technique of thoracic surgery prompted the Board, as stated last year, to place six beds at his disposal for an additional year. Dr. Lilienthal made excellent use of these facilities. On December 31, 1923, however, Dr. Lilienthal's service as an active member of the staff was brought to a close, and in recognition of the service which Dr. Lilienthal has rendered, it seems proper to pay tribute to his many important contributions to modern surgery. These include the "two-stage suprapubic operation for prostatectomy; the removal of the kidney and entire ureter down to the bladder without making the usual long incision; a new operative method in cholecystectomy; a technique for pulmonary lobectomy; a permanent colostomy; and operation for bony temporo maxillary ankylosis; a method for the operative fixation of infected fractures; a method for the complete exploration of the mediastinum, including the resection of the oesophagus and ligation of the large vessels."

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Dr. Lilienthal continues to enjoy the privileges of the private Pavilion besides continuing on active service in several other hospitals.

Dr. Charles H. May, who joined the Hospital in 1893, has been transferred from the active to the consulting staff, and is now consulting ophthalmic surgeon. Dr. May's services were of inestimable value to the Hospital, and we are pleased that we were able, before his withdrawal from this Hospital's active service, to introduce into the service, as a means of improving it, the special resident surgeons whose appointment Dr. May advocated. His place was filled by the appointment of Dr. Julius Wolff, formerly associate ophthalmic surgeon.

We are gratified that in another clinical department, namely, the Department of Pediatrics, our organization has been strengthened by the appointment to the position of Pediatrician of Dr. Béla Schick, formerly Professor at the University of Vienna. Dr. Schick, who has a world-wide reputation in the field of scientific pediatrics, was accorded by the Regents of the University of the State of New York a special license to practice medicine on the ground of his international eminence and his valuable contributions to medical science.

Dr. Walter Brickner, after being connected with the Hospital for 28 years as intern, adjunct surgeon and then as associate surgeon, resigned the latter position in the past year. Dr. Brickner not only gave splendid service to the institution within its own walls, but as one of the most important officers of the Mount Sinai Hospital Unit during the war made a reputation for himself as a surgeon and as an executive of exceptional ability.

Dr. H. W. Berg was appointed physician to the Isolation Service, and Dr. A. O. Wilensky associate surgeon.

The increase in the number of patients put additional burdens on the house staff, whose work became so heavy that in the interest of the Service, relief measures became necessary. It was decided to lighten the burden of the staff by the appointment of residents and assistant residents for the following special services: Pediatrics, Neurology, Gynecology, and Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and this innovation has given splendid results.

The utilization of the new private pavilion, since it was opened in the Spring of 1922, has exceeded our expectations and has fully justified the erection of this magnificent memorial. The capacity of the old private pavilion was 57 beds. The step from a building containing 57 rooms to one containing 131 rooms was a long one, and it was predicted by some that the new building would not be occupied to anything like capacity for many years. What are the facts? During the past year the average number of patients in the private pavilion, Summer months included, was 105, while the record of the early part of the current year considerably exceeds that of the corresponding section of the previous year. Today, the pavilion is occupied to about 90 per cent. of its rated capacity, which, making due allowance for the time unavoidably lost between the departure of one patient and the admission of his successor, represents a fully occupied Hospital.

Since the opening of the new pavilion, the Board has given much thought to the question of rates charged for rooms and has adopted a schedule which, in view of the service rendered, is believed to be moderate. These rates, which include board, lodging, medicines and ordinary (not special) nursing, actually range from a minimum of $8 per day to a maximum of $15 per day. In a number of other hospitals of about the same grade in New York City, both maximum and average rates are considerably higher. No effort is spared by Mount Sinai Hospital to maintain the excellence of this service, and we do not believe that the Hospital can fairly be criticized for asking those who seek this grade of service to pay what it costs, plus a reasonable rate of interest on the capital invested, especially when it is understood that all income above the net operating cost is applied toward the support of the Hospital's free work.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The Hospital is desirous of developing, but as yet lacks the means to support an adequate follow-up system in connection with its medical and surgical services, a fully developed Department of Physiotherapy and Hydrotherapy; and, in its out-patient division, a Department of Dentistry. Capital funds totaling $20,224.76 have been contributed for the support of a dental clinic, but the interest on this sum is far from sufficient to justify the inauguration of a department commensurate with our needs. In the meantime, the Hospital is obliged to seek the co-operation of other organizations in securing dental care for its dispensary patients, and while this care is often generously given, it does not satisfactorily meet our needs. The close relation of dental hygiene and treatment to general medicine is now widely recognized and cannot be ignored by any institution of Mount Sinai's standing.

The current expenses of the Hospital (including the Training School, the Social Service Department and the Ladies' Auxiliary) for the year 1923 were $1,390,995.29. The current income from all sources amounted to $1,341,943.65, leaving a deficit of $49,051.64, which we were compelled to make up from our permanent fund.

We received from Federation for the entire

Mount Sinai Hospital group	$410,471.00
From the United Hospital Fund.....	37,366.01
From the City of New York	49,703.86

The latter item compares with $71,392.42 received in 1922 and $71,633.75 in 1921, and we regret to say that the payments of the city so far this year are again on a declining scale. New rules adopted by the Welfare Department of the city eliminate a great many cases which formerly were allowed and for which we should, in our opinion, be compensated by the city. While the statement made by the City that there are empty beds in the City Hospitals is no doubt literally correct, it is equally true that the nursing and administrative staffs in these institutions would have to be considerably augmented were all the beds occupied, and that therefore an important saving accrues to the city by virtue of the private institutions handling these cases instead of referring them to city hospitals.

We are fortunate in having to acknowledge many generous benefactions during the past year, and to those who so graciously remembered Mount Sinai Hospital, we tender the assurance of our sincere gratitude.

Mr. and Mrs. William I. Walter, who last year inaugurated an Endowment Fund for the Children's Out-Patient Department with a gift of $50,000, have added $25,000 to this fund.

Mr. Daniel Kops' death has taken from us one of our most useful and beloved Trustees. He took a deep interest in everything concerning our institution, and he was particularly devoted to the welfare of our employees, to whose personal comfort he added in every direction. Copy of the resolutions adopted on the occasion of our late colleague's demise will be embodied in our report.

The Hospital has suffered another great loss in the death of Mr. F. R. Minrath, who, for more than three decades together with our departed friend, Edward Lauterbach, had given us such splendid service in attending to our legal matters.

Mr. Alfred Jaretzki was elected a Trustee and has become Chairman of the Committee on Rules and Legal Matters.

We do not often praise Trustees for the work they are doing because it is expected that they should labor for the benefit of the institution. There are, however, a few outstanding examples of exceptional service, and these deserve mention.

Our colleague, Mr. Frankfort, has continued the custom practiced by him since many years of giving his entire time to the service of the Hospital, and his indefatigable efforts along constructive lines make his contribution to the institution of incalculable value.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Mr. Klingenstein, as head of the Purchasing Committee, is in almost daily attendance at the Hospital, and savings in many directions are due to the close attention he gives to all the details of the departments.

After having been President of Federation for three years, Mr. Arthur Lehman has retired from that office, and we gladly take this opportunity to thank him for the good work he has performed with such gratifying results for the institutions connected with the Federation.

We again wish to give expression of our appreciation to Mrs. Emil Frenkel heading the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. Alfred A. Cook heading the Social Service Auxiliary and Mr. Hugo Blumenthal, the President of the School of Nursing.

To Dr. Goldwater we are, as ever, grateful for his untiring devotion and the brilliant talent which he daily brings to bear on our problems. To his many co-workers in the Hospital and the School of Nursing, we are likewise thankful for their ever-cheerful and efficient service. We cannot begin to enumerate them all, but we must make mention of the Assistant Directors, Drs. Bluestone and Turner; Miss Elizabeth A. Greener, Superintendent of Nurses; Miss Erwin, Supervisor of the Private Pavilion; Miss Lissauer, Head Worker of the Social Service Department; Miss Slator, Supervisor of the Out-Patient Department, and Miss Graves of the Dietary Department.

Our thanks are herewith tendered to all the heads of departments as well as to their staffs for the splendid esprit de corps shown and the efficient service rendered.

We have received many courtesies from the city authorities and from the various city departments. To the Mayor, the Comptroller and the Commissioner of Public Welfare we extend our thanks for the kindness they have shown to us.

Mr. J. D. Mason, of Messrs. Hoadley, Lauterbach & Johnson, has continued to advise us on legal matters, and we thank him most sincerely for his efficient aid.

The Board of Trustees is keenly conscious of the fact that through the additions to the Hospital made over a series of years an institution has been created which, because of its size, is in danger of losing the personal touch which is so important a factor in organizations dealing with the public, and particularly with that part of the public which is not independent.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

It is our constant aim to see the problem from the viewpoint of the patient, and whenever we seem to disregard the wishes of the individual, it is because we have reason to know that the welfare of the many is being threatened by the one.

Rules and regulations which may to the individual appear unnecessary and even arbitrary are enforced only because failure to do so would work harm to his neighbor. Restrictions of visitors which often entail hardship are justified only because an undue number of visitors to a convalescent patient, while not harmful to him, may be most injurious to a very sick sufferer in the next bed. Our Social Service Department, which has been greatly expanded and developed, assumes the duty of relieving the patient of mental distress on account of economic and family worries, both while in the Hospital and after discharge therefrom, and acts as a buffer between the patient and the unnatural condition in which he finds himself as a result of sickness.

With the encouragement of your help and approval, we shall continue to work toward ever higher ideals in the care of the sick and the advancement of medicine, and we hope that you, as members and supporters of the Mount Sinai Hospital, will continue to feel a glow of pride at its achievements.

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,
President.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF DANIEL KOPS

At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Mount Sinai Hospital, held on Monday, October 1, 1923, announcement was made of the death of Daniel Kops, a Trustee of this Institution since 1913, whereupon it was resolved to express the sentiments of the members of the Board in the following minute:

It is with deepest sorrow that we have today learned of the death of Daniel Kops, who had faithfully served the Hospital for the past ten years.

During that period he had given freely of his time and his means to advance the interests of the Hospital in every possible way. He worked unselfishly and effectively in developing the resources of the Institution, and his loss will be keenly felt by us.

In his business relations with his employees he had won an enviable place, having been recognized as one of the forward looking employers of the city, who had developed bonds of sympathy and good feeling between himself and his employees. He manifested the same interest in the workers of the Hospital, spent much time in considering the advancement of their welfare, and he was always ready to lend financial aid when this was required.

For a number of years he devoted himself to the tuberculosis work done in the Hospital, for the expansion of which department he created a generous fund, and latterly he took up with special interest the work of the Laboratory.

In the death of Daniel Kops the community has lost a splendid citizen, who maintained a broad interest in all work involving the relief of the poor and suffering.

To the members of his bereaved family we extend our heartfelt sympathy in the irreparable loss which they have sustained.

It was further resolved that the Board of Trustees attend the funeral in a body, that the flag of the Hospital be placed at half-mast until after the funeral, and that an engrossed copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased.

ALBERT FORSCH,
Secretary.

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,
President.

REPORT OF THE ACTIVITIES OF THE MEDICAL STAFF DURING THE YEAR 1923

At the request of the President of the Hospital and in conformity with custom, the President of the Medical Board herewith submits a resumé of the activities of the various medical and surgical services and of those special departments which are directly connected with the care and treatment of the patients within the Hospital. This resumé is confined to the labors of the various staffs during the year of 1923; its material has been supplied by the chiefs of the respective departments.

Before submitting this, however, a word should be said as to the influence which the scientific work of this institution has on present medical thought and medical teaching. The members of the staff have been active in presenting their individual work to the medical profession through the medium of the prominent medical societies. Through the publication of these presentations in medical journals, the reputation of the institution has been spread far and wide. A most important factor related to this influence, which was introduced last year, will be the means of carrying further advanced instruction which had previously been confined to our own interns to a larger group.

By an arrangement with Columbia University, which requested Mount Sinai Hospital to co-operate in a larger scheme for "extension" post-graduate instruction, we have opened our portals to the entrance of qualified practitioners of medicine for post-graduate general courses and instruction in the specialties. While this instruction is given under the aegis of Columbia University, the Hospital has been left free to arrange the courses and to select the subject matter and the teachers. For the first year it was deemed wise to start this teaching innovation with one department only, though it is in the plan gradually to embrace every department of the Hospital in the teaching program. These courses are directed toward giving the general practitioners and the specialist an insight into the newer developments and advances in medicine and the specialties so that they may keep abreast of the times.

The department thus first selected was the Medical. The chiefs of this service arranged a schedule of courses which brought into operation practically all the members of the medical staff. Even before the courses began, they were fully subscribed for. The second course begins in March and the classes are already full. Post-graduate teaching, therefore, is no longer a venture; it has demonstrated its need, its usefulness and its worth. With the second course, Pediatrics will be added, and the chief of the Pediatric Department has already arranged a very interesting schedule of instruction for his classes.

A second factor in promoting the before-mentioned influence is the continuation of the general medical public clinics, held once a month in the Blumenthal Auditorium by the chiefs of the Medical Department, assisted by members of their respective staffs. These clinics are well attended not only by physicians from our own city but by those from the neighboring towns in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Yet another factor not to be ignored is the annual E. G. Janeway Lecture, which was given in the year 1923 by Prof. J. J. R. MacLeod of Toronto, Canada. Prof. MacLeod, one of the most able physiologists, supervised the work of Dr. F. G. Banting and his collaborators in the investigations leading to the discovery of Insulin and its application to the treatment of diabetes.

Perhaps one of the most, if not the most important, element of our educational work is the holding of what have been called "Pathological Conferences" on Friday afternoon of each week. They have become so popular that the room in which these conferences have been held in the past has become inadequate for the purpose. The attending staff of the Hospital and the medical public welcome the news that this defect is soon to be remedied.

In this connection should be mentioned the other agencies for moulding medical thought; though they are more limited in their scope, they are of almost equal importance, viz., the constant teaching of the interns by the attending staff. This is done daily on "general rounds," and weekly by the heads of the Medical Department on so-called "Grand Rounds" when more detailed instruction is confined to select cases of diseases; at times this teaching takes the form of special lectures on such cases. For their special benefit, general conferences are held on the last Thursday of each month, attended by the staffs of all the departments, at which are presented cases which have a more general aspect.

The scientific and humanitarian interests of your own Attending Staffs are being promoted by conferences which are held by the individual Departments once a month and which are intended to deal in detail with an analysis of their work during the elapsed month. In these conferences, open and free discussion by all the members of the Attending Staff connected with the individual department takes place. The details of patients' illnesses, the methods of treatment are analyzed in the hope of eliciting some new point of view, some improvement in methods and means by which the patient may be benefitted.

In the Medical Department, a number of the subjects on which previous reports were made are still being studied; some may require continued investigations extending over a number of years.

The incidence of pneumonia following upon operative procedure was made the basis of a special report by the committee appointed to study the subject. It was found that the cases were relatively infrequent, and that they chiefly occurred after operations upon the abdomen.

A volume dealing with the clinical interpretation of roentgenologic pictures of the chest has appeared, being based on studies made in the clinical departments and the Department of Roentgenology.

The diseases of the valves of the heart were made the subject of a comprehensive publication. A hitherto undescribed form of such diseases was described. These conditions and the subject of pericarditis are still under investigation. Extensive electrocardiographic studies are being made in a variety of infectious conditions, including endocarditis. So-called angina pectoris is being analyzed from clinical, pathological and electrocardiographic standpoints. The observations on electrocardiographic changes in diseases of the muscle of the heart occurring in connection with diseases of the coronary arteries, which were published in brief in 1917, will be soon reported in more comprehensive fashion. Studies of hypertension and of the capillaries are being continued, and nephritis is being studied from various points of view.

The treatment of diabetes by means of insulin has been carried out in all the departments by members of the Medical Department. New methods for the dietetic management of the disease are being tested.

The subject of ulcer of the stomach and duodenum will require attention for a long time. Not only is the question of the indications for medical and for surgical treatment being assiduously discussed, but a study of types of constitution of patients with these diseases has been begun. Especial attention has been paid to the treatment of various forms of ulcerative colitis, and new methods are being tried.

Quite extensive investigations of diseases of the liver are under way. Especial attention has been given to studies of function, and to the origin and formation of biliary pigment. The physiology of the gall-bladder is interesting several members of the staff. The Meltzer-Lyons test is still being investigated.

Splenectomy in the treatment of purpura hemorrhagica is being further studied. The lives of three patients, additional to those reported last year, have been saved and their disease cured by this operation.

An undescribed form of splenomegaly and general glandular involvement has been observed and will soon be presented. The studies on blood platelets and on leukemia are being continued. The investigations on the nature of the action of sodium citrate on the coagulation of the blood are in the course of publication.

The studies on disorders of the involuntary nervous system, particularly in the relation to Graves' Syndrome, are being actively prosecuted. The comparative value and indications for medical and surgical treatment in this affection are also being studied by members of the Medical and Surgical Departments.

In the Department of Neurology, considerable attention has been given to the elucidation of the clinical problems afforded by a further study of encephalitis. The subject of brain tumors, amaurotic family idiocy, acute and chronic multiple sclerosis, lateral sclerosis and various scleroses of the brain in children have been intensively investigated both from the clinical and pathological standpoints.

Studies of tumors of the spinal cord and neuro-psychiatric complications in Diseases of the Blood have engaged the attention of some other members of the staff, as has the subject of an inquiry into racial psychology.

An important contribution from this Department was a study of the present-day laws of heredity as applied to a series of cases of amaurotic family idiocy which had been observed and collected during the past thirty-eight years.

Studies in histo-pathology and in neuro-anatomy have been continued.

The Dermatological Department has further developed the work and enlarged its scope in the treatment of syphilis.

The use of bismuth has been justified in the treatment of this disease, and has proven a very valuable therapeutic agent, especially indicated where salvarsan and mercury are not well borne, and in cases refractory to the latter drugs.

The administration of foreign protein has been systematically employed in the treatment of various other skin affections.

The Dermatological Service and the Department of Medicine have been more intimately associated in the study of skin lesions to the manifest benefit of each, and particularly resulting in greater benefits to the patients.

The Pediatric Department during the past year completed its organization by the appointment of Prof. Béla Schick of Vienna to the position of pediatrician to Mount Sinai Hospital. Dr. Schick's appointment is too recent to show his forceful influence on the work of the past year.

The staff of the Children's Service were engaged in the study of the effect of splenectomy on selected cases of purpura hemorrhagica in children, on the excretion of urobilin in anemic states, and on the study of the treatment of pneumonia in anemic children by blood transfusion.

In addition to the daily routine activities of the Pathological Department, a certain amount of time was devoted to the study and investigation of problems of especial interest to individual members of the laboratory staff or the clinical staff. Contributions have been made on atypical verrucous endocarditis and on the occurrence of glomerulonephritis in association with this form of disease; on changes in the kidney in cases of pyloric stenosis; on certain forms of benign tumors and sarcoma of the gastro-intestinal tract; on solid ovarian tumors; on the presence of mucinous glands in the mucous membrane of the bladder; on ganglioneuroma in the mediastinum; and further observations have also been published on the subject of pulmonary supuration.

In the field of pathology, studies were made on local atherosclerosis in association with gastric ulcer; on phlegmonous gastritis; on ovarian transplantation; on the etiology of ovarian cysts and the pathology of diseased tubes; on the changes in the liver associated with gall-bladder disease; on the pathology of the thyroid gland with reference to the clinical phenomena. Investigations are also in progress on uterine secretion in relation to blood coagulation and on the shortening of coagulation time after intravenous injection of sodium citrate.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL STAFF

Histological investigations are being made on a form of rapidly growing tumor of the central nervous system described as spongio-blastoma; on the histogenesis of peripheral nerves, and on the localization of the lesion in diabetes insipidus. The experimental localization of cerebral function is being studied as well as the relation of ventricular hypertrophy to the seat of tumor formation in the brain.

Investigations are still in progress on the newer precipitation tests in syphilis and on the purification of antibodies, a preliminary article on the latter subject having been published. An intensive study of the relationship which the virus of herpes bears to the virus of epidemic encephalitis is being carried on, and cross immunity studies on typhus fever are nearing completion.

The work in the Department of Physiological Chemistry has increased at such a rapid rate during the past year that the policy instituted some years ago of developing specialists in the various branches of clinical chemistry has been of considerable benefit. The men have been trained in special branches, such as the study and investigation of gastro-intestinal diseases, allergic diseases, diabetes, nephritis, diseases of the liver and spleen, of the circulatory system, and the methods have been taught to members of the attending and house staffs, as well as to laboratory workers in other departments.

The work in progress and completed covers a wide range, comprising the standardizing of micro-chemical methods applicable to the analysis of blood and urine, detection of bile pigments, pancreatic and duodenal ferments, and their application to diseases of the gastro-intestinal tract. Work is being carried on in the determination, estimation, origin and ultimate fate in the body of the blood proteins, in various pathological states. Protein extracts have been prepared for use in the dispensary clinic for asthma and hay-fever, and studies are now in progress on the blood chemistry in these conditions. Chemical blood investigations in various gastro-intestinal conditions are being carried on, the bile in various disorders of the gall-bladder and liver being studied from many angles, both chemical and physico-chemical.

Chemical changes are being studied in certain experimental work now in progress in connection with pyloric stenosis. Cases of acute fatty enlargement of the liver in infants, as well as the determination of the inorganic constituents of the blood, chloride excretion and other factors in various types of nephritis have been investigated. The sugar tolerance in children in relation to body weight and body surface has been the subject for other studies.

In the Department of Surgery great activity emphasized the labors of its Staff. These embraced studies in general surgery as well as in the special groups which the surgeons had selected for individualistic research. Particularly is this manifest in the following specialties:

In the Genito-Urinary group the study of the treatment of bladder tumors by operative methods was continued. Advantage of the available facilities was taken to supplement surgery with radium and intensive X-ray therapy.

The diagnosis and treatment of the diseases of the urinary organs in children, of bleeding from the kidneys and ureters in adults and children formed the subjects of contributions to surgical literature, as did observations upon ureteral obstructions, and upon affections of the ureter after nephrectomy.

In the specialistic investigation of surgery of the nervous system, a study was made on the changes in the shape of the cerebral ventricles secondary to brain tumors both by the use of air injections into the cavities of the brain and by means of wax reconstruction of the cerebral ventricles in postmortem material.

The use of local anesthesia in operations for cerebral tumors has been more greatly employed with considerable diminution in the operative risk. The best methods for the employment of this type of anesthesia is engaging the attention of the neuro-surgical group.

Investigations on lumbar puncture and its value in the diagnosis of intracranial disease and of injury to the skull and brain were continued.

In the gastro-enterological group the studies on the prevention of recurrences of ulceration some time after medical and surgical treatment has apparently dissipated gastric and duodenal ulcers, are being continued. These recurrences have prompted a more intimate experimental and clinical investigation for the underlying causes of recurrences. At the same time the knowledge derived from this work is being directed toward the development of a real medical treatment for ulcers of the stomach and duodenum.

More radical operations have been performed, with apparently no greater surgical risk, in the hope of giving a real cure for these serious diseases. Modifications in the surgical technique on these more radical operations have been made and introduced, and considerable attention has been given to standardizing the operations and rendering them more simple.

In connection with the Medical Department, an investigation as to the causative factors underlying the occurrence of pneumonia, which occasionally follows operations on the upper abdominal viscera, is almost completed. This study would tend to show that post-operative pneumonias are not altogether the result of general anesthesia because they appear even when such anesthesia is replaced by a local one.

In the surgical treatment of Graves' disease, improvements in operative technique were instituted, and studies in the surgical treatment of diseases of the gall-bladder were continued.

In the Department of Gynecology was installed a new and improved follow-up system, which is operating most satisfactorily and is proving of very great benefit to the patient and of tremendous advantage to the systematization of the results of treatment which directly reinforces the knowledge of the physician.

More accurate checking up of end results in all hospital cases extending over a long period of time must and does result in constant attempts at an improvement in operative technique and methods of treatment.

Various investigations were made by this department upon the nature of injuries to the pelvic organs occasioned by childbirth.

The Department of Gynecology also completed the study of pre-operative digitalization of the heart in its relation to averting some of the post-operative complications.

The Ophthalmological Service studied a number of patients suffering from cataract in their relationship to lens protein sensitivity, both before and after operation, to ascertain whether this test afforded any valuable guide to the indications for operation and to the prognosis as to results of cataract operation.

Considerable attention has been given to a modification of the usual method of cataract extraction, and to an atypical method of dealing with certain cases of glaucoma.

In the course of the work performed by the Otological Department, valuable data were obtained in the examination of obscure cranial conditions by the use of the Barany tests. These supplemented the work of the previous year, and were greatly aided and facilitated by the mutual co-operation of this with the Neurological Department.

Special attention was given to the investigation of otitic sinus thrombosis in all its phases, aided by the use of animal experimentation. These are in the course of publication.

The Laryngological Department has continued the treatment of lung abscesses by bronchoscopic irrigations with increasing success. Several additional patients have been placed on the list of cured cases. This is worthy of a word of comment. In the past the sufferers from lung abscess were doomed to a horrible existence, shunned by family and friends on account of the terrible odor arising from the infected abscess cavity in the lungs. Death came as a welcome release from this pariah existence. The cure of this condition by surgical excision of the diseased lung, begun in this Hospital a few years ago, is, owing to the nature of the conditions, attended by a considerable mortality. The method of irrigating the abscess cavity gives many of these patients an economic rehabilitation, and to some a seemingly absolute cure.

In addition, the Department of Laryngology has been engaged in a pathological and clinical study of cases of angioma of the larynx, of which peculiarity a large number sought relief in this hospital.

From this very abbreviated and sketchy outline of the medical activities of our Hospital, you may learn that your medical men are neither drones nor laggards, that they are keenly and earnestly engaged in the promotion of medical science and the teaching to others of knowledge which they have been put into a position to acquire by virtue of their connection with a large and progressive institution of learning, such as Mount Sinai Hospital represents. Even this gratuitous public service could not be given were it not for a generous Board of Trustees, whose broad vision has encompassed a much wider field of usefulness than is concerned merely with the beneficent care of the sick, and who see that a hospital's work is more complete when its educational benefits are extended to all other similar institutions. This can best be accomplished by the dissemination of such knowledge gained in the care of patients to others similarly engaged.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

NATHAN E. BRILL, M.D.,

President of the Medical Board.

ABSTRACT FROM CONSTITUTION

Section 8 of Article 4, referring to the establishment of special funds, reads as follows:

“An endowment for the establishing of any special fund may be accepted by a resolution of the Board of Trustees. Such fund may be created either for a special purpose, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to such purpose only, or under the name of one or more persons, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to the general purposes of the Hospital. Such endowment funds shall be kept by the Treasurer as special accounts. Contributions to existing funds may be made at any time, but no fund shall be created with an initial endowment of less than Ten Thousand Dollars.”

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL OF NURSING

To the Board of Trustees of the Mount Sinai Hospital:

A review of the work of our School of Nursing for the year 1923 presents as a whole a satisfactory picture of accomplishment and progress. The school has continued to develop rapidly in size, and applicants of a most satisfactory type continue to make application for admission in gratifying numbers.

On March 20th, commencement exercises were held for the forty-third anniversary of the School of Nursing and the largest class in the history of the school, seventy-five in number, received their diplomas. This class was the first one to graduate under the shortened period of two years and eight months' course of training.

A study of the work of the school as a whole shows how complex the training of nurses in this day and age has become and how much more difficult such training is to conduct satisfactorily than in the earlier days of the school's history, largely because of the great increase in academic work. Our student nurses today have only an eight-hour day and night nursing service, but they have in addition a very heavy educational program with a constantly increasing schedule of class and lecture work. Each nurse in training now spends 725 hours in actual class room periods and in addition is given 200 hours of carefully supervised study and practice work, making a total of 925 hours in all or a general average of about nine hours each week, exclusive of the two Summer months during which time vacations are given in large numbers. Practically 600 hours of this schedule must be covered during the first six months of training and the attempt is made to complete most of the educational work in the first two years and four months. As a result, students frequently carry an exceedingly heavy program of lecture and class work in addition to eight hours daily of actual nursing service on the ward.

The educational work of the school has increased so gradually that only those directly concerned in the management of the school and responsible for the arrangement of its curriculum can appreciate how marked this increase has been. There are times when our educational program seems to be almost overwhelming, yet we remain under rather than over the requirements of the Department of Education, under whose control all schools of nursing of this state are placed.

An analysis of the present situation shows that there are two main reasons for the marked increase in our educational work during recent years. The first is due to the changed attitude on the part of the State Department in regard to schools of nursing. In former years many subjects required by them were decidedly neglected or overlooked. The small personnel of the State Board of Nurse Examiners made it impossible for them to give the personal supervision to schools of nursing which, with their increased number, they are now able to give. As a result of their increased efforts, instruction in all required subjects in the curriculum is now being exacted and certain other subjects have been added. No student is permitted to take an examination for State registration until an official detailed report has been submitted by her school to the State Department accounting for all time spent in each medical or hospital service with the record of all class and lecture work, the number of hours spent on each subject, examination ratings, etc. Schools of nursing in New York maintaining high standards are making every effort to meet adequately their educational responsibilities. A second reason for the great increase in the amount of educational work to be accomplished is the direct result of changes of administration or policy on the part of our own Hospital and Training School. First, because of our shortened period of training from three years to two years and eight months we are obliged to crowd a greatly increased educational schedule into a reduced number of hours. Second, the increased size of the hospital necessitates the admission of larger classes of students, hence more frequent repetition of class work. Third, the increase in the amount of technical knowledge required of the nurse for her work both within and without the hospital in this day and age necessitates an increased amount of nursing instruction in order to give the student this additional knowledge. Fourth, the increase in the number of affiliated nurses received for medical and pediatric training and also in the amount and character of instruction given to this group.

In order to conduct our present educational program, it has become necessary for us to maintain a teaching faculty of five and one-half full-time nurse instructors and one full-time teaching dietitian. In addition to the instruction given by this group during the present year, from 380 to 400 lectures will be given by our medical lecturers. The annual cost to the School of Nursing for teaching salaries alone amounts to over nine thousand dollars.

So much for the educational work of the school. As to the actual nursing work which has been accomplished by the students for the past year, the following facts are brought to your attention: During 1923 the Hospital admitted and treated over 12,000 patients, of which number 9,500 were treated in the wards of the Hospital. The dispensary treated over 60,000 patients, and 6,105 major operations were performed. To practically all of these patients our students gave their entire nursing care. The addition of the north wing, a building of four wards—two neurological and two gastroentological—with a total capacity of 72 patients, has been an added nursing responsibility during the past year which has been very comfortably met.

During the past year, 1,100 letters of inquiry and application for admission to our school of nursing have been received. From this group, 120 students were selected for admission. Our school has never been so large in numbers as during the past year. We have maintained a daily average of 242 students, which number includes 30 probationers and 32 affiliated nurses, and for a period of over two months our daily average of students ranged from 300 to 320. A group of 60 graduates, assistants in various capacities, has also been maintained, so that our total nursing resident group has averaged over 300 daily. In addition, largely in use in the private pavilion, we also have an average of about 150 graduate day and night nurses. These figures are quoted to show how liberally the Hospital is staffed with nurses at the present time.

A study of the intention and purpose of students entering our school for the past year gives us the following interesting result: 32 per cent. of the probationers who enrolled for training did so with the view of being prepared for private duty nursing, 68 per cent. entered training with the definite intention of preparing themselves to do public health work in some form or hospital executive work. A census of this year's graduating class yields the following interesting figures: 15 per cent. mention private duty nursing as their greatest interest and expect to enroll for this work as soon as their training is completed; 27 per cent. are ambitious of becoming hospital or training school executives; 54 per cent. express an intention of going at once into some branch of public health nursing. Industrial work, school nursing, welfare work with children and social service work are the four types which appear to make the greatest appeal to this group.

The change which has taken place in the mind of the desirable young woman of ability and purpose in regard to nursing is clearly indicated by expressions of opinion such as these from students entering and leaving schools of nursing today. No longer does the prospective nurse limit her ideal of service to bedside nursing. As a result, most hospitals, especially those maintaining a full three-year course of training, try to make it possible for each student to have some special opportunity for several months of elective work along public health or executive lines. It is obviously impossible even in three years to prepare every student for every branch of nursing work, but it is our earnest intention to give them a good sound nursing education of such a character that the foundation for success in any special line may be reasonably assured. When possible, the nurse is encouraged during training to select and try out a few months' service in the particular field in which her greatest nursing interest lies.

During the past year a committee was appointed by the National League of Nursing Education to make a survey and study of budgets of schools of nursing. A number of the best schools throughout the country were requested to submit their estimates to this committee. The findings in our own school are both significant and interesting. We discovered that it cost the Hospital $760 on an average to support every nurse living here, whether she is a student or a graduate. This figure does not include any allowance for interest on the capital invested in the nurses' home or the educational building. The $760 does, however, include the upkeep of Training School buildings, their physical operation, depreciation and insurance as well as maintenance—food, laundry, help, supplies, equipment, etc. In addition to the $760, the approximate cost last year for every nurse in training, an additional allowance of $425 must be made for educational and special expenses, making a total net annual cost to the Hospital of $1,185 for the support and education of each student. Against this should be reckoned, as an equivalent, the cash value of the services which the student renders.

Intermingled with long hours of serious nursing responsibility in the Hospital and serious educational work in the class room are many happy social hours so necessary to the well-being and happiness of the young student nurses. Among these must be included the Halloween party, the wonderful Christmas celebration, holiday dance, the senior dance and the theatre party made possible through our generous Albert W. Scholle Fund.

Including this year's graduating class, our school now numbers nearly 1,300 graduates. Of this number, nearly 600 are members of the Alumnae Association. Following the plan initiated last year, the Alumnae Association has again voted to accept this year's graduating class into full membership, waiving payment of initiation fees and the first year's dues. This is co-operation with the School of Nursing of the highest order and should meet with most loyal response from young student nurses in keeping up all future alumnae obligations.

In spite of the fact that our school comprises nearly 1,300 graduates, we still continue to have only about 240 of this number on our Training School registry. Registry reports for the past year show that 6,000 calls were received for graduate nurses for private duty cases; 3,800 of these calls were filled by our own graduates; 2,416 cases were cared for by outside nurses largely from the Central Registry, and for 240 cases it was impossible to supply nurses.

It has been voted by the Board to adopt a new small type of diploma for the school following the decision of the State Board to issue similar small certificates of registration. In future, all official nursing diplomas or certificates will be reduced to the 6x8 size, and in order to furnish each graduate with a safe and suitable container for such papers, the Training School will present each nurse with a leather case of school blue stamped with a facsimile of the school pin and with the name of the student on the lower right-hand corner.

The idea of using diplomas and certificates of reduced size for nurses originated in the State of California, and because of its convenience and desirability bids fair to become universal throughout the country in a few years.

There have been few changes during the year in our faculty or supervisory group. We are, however, anticipating a serious loss on April 1st through the resignation of our competent instructor, Miss Mary Brown, who, to our deep regret, is obliged to resign her position with us. Fortunately, one of our recent graduates, Miss Mae Reid, whom we consider peculiarly well fitted to fill this difficult position, is available and will be advanced to fill the vacancy created by Miss Brown's resignation.

To the Hospital Board and to Dr. Goldwater we are as usual deeply indebted for constant advice and much helpful assistance. To the Medical Board, especially to those who have done so much for us in caring for our sick nurses, we earnestly express our appreciation and thanks. The Board of the School of Nursing wishes to express its sincere appreciation of the efforts of our able Superintendent of Nurses, Miss Elizabeth Greener, who has so successfully piloted our Training School ship during the past nine years and also the faculty of the Training School with its splendid group of graduate nurses who contribute so greatly to the success of the school in maintaining school standards, school discipline and school morale.

HUGO BLUMENTHAL, President.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF DANIEL KOPS

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Mount Sinai Hospital School of Nursing held October 1, 1923, having been informed of the death of their fellow Director, Mr. Daniel Kops, the members expressed their sentiments in the following minute:

In the death of Daniel Kops, who faithfully served as a member of our Board for nearly eight years, we have lost an earnest and devoted colleague, who took a deep and abiding interest in all that affected our school, and was unstinted in his labors and ever ready with his wise and prudent counsel.

The personnel and pupils of our school have lost a friend who took a deep personal interest in them and who faithfully labored to maintain the high standards of the school.

Through long years of association he has endeared himself to all and his untimely death fills us with a deep sense of personal loss.

To the family we extend our sincere sympathy in the great loss which they have sustained.

It was resolved that these resolutions be entered upon the minutes of the Society, that they be published and that an engrossed copy thereof be sent to the family of the deceased.

OFFICERS

MRS. EMIL FRENKEL.....	PRESIDENT
MRS. WM. GOODMAN.....	VICE-PRESIDENT
MRS. OSCAR ROSE.....	TREASURER
MRS. J. A. ARNOLD.....	SECRETARY

TO THE TRUSTEES OF MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL.

Gentlemen:

I take great pleasure in reporting to you upon the activities of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Mount Sinai Hospital for the season ending March, 1924.

Again our quota has been filled in the self-allotted time. We close our meetings, which as usual were held every Monday from November until March, with the feeling that in spite of a great number of handicaps we accomplished our task and filled your requisition of bedding, linens and garments. At times I should have liked to welcome a larger attendance at our meetings. To those who cheerfully gave up their Monday afternoons for our cause, and who by their earnestness and faithfulness made the accomplishment of our work possible, the greatest measure of thanks is due.

With deep sorrow we record the death during the past year of two of our directresses—Mrs. Clara Glazier and Mrs. Flora Ranger—who for many years graced our board with their kindly presence. Their untiring efforts in our behalf will always be remembered with gratitude.

For your perusal, I submit the detailed report of the work done in our workroom:

REPORT OF THE LADIES' AUXILIARY SOCIETY

As in former years, your Board has been a most wonderful help to us, and I wish to express to you and especially to Mr. Klingenstein our sincere gratitude for your ever helpful advice and co-operation as well as for your financial aid, given so kindly when needed.

To the members of our Board, who so loyally assisted me at all times, and to our ever faithful matron, Mrs. Altman, I want to say—it has been a pleasure to work with you, and I thank you most cordially for all your splendid support.

Respectfully submitted,

MALY R. FRENKEL,

President.

REPORT OF THE SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

To the Board of Trustees:

It is gratifying to report that during the past year we were able to expand our work and to fill several needs that had been evident for some time. Through the generosity of some of the members of the Board of the Social Service Auxiliary, and others interested in the development of the department, we were enabled to engage a social worker with psychiatric training to follow up some of the cases in the children's health class; to place a worker in the general medical clinics of the dispensary and to add two much needed clerical workers to our staff.

A comparison of the statistical reports of the last two years shows that we had 324 more new cases, to which we gave intensive care, and 768 more slight service cases in 1923 than in 1922. More cases were referred by co-operating agencies as well as to co-operating agencies. There was a larger number of ward consultations, as we interviewed all patients; free as well as those who pay towards their maintenance. There was an increase of 1,341 social service visits and a considerable increase in co-operative and nursing visits.

On May 1st, Miss Fanny Lissauer was put in charge of the department. Her responsibilities in this position were so onerous that it was necessary to engage an assistant to relieve her of some of the work, and Miss Mary Hallahan was appointed as such.

In the Children's Social Service Department a third worker was added to the staff. This permits us to look after the dispensary cases more thoroughly. During the Summer months, the dispensary work being lighter, the new worker took charge of the fresh air work of the entire Social Service Department, with the exception of the tuberculosis and cardiac clinics where, owing to the physical condition of the children, special homes are needed. This centralization plan of the fresh air work proved most satisfactory.

For the past two years the attending physicians of the children's pavilion have been urging the necessity of meetings with our workers to discuss cases with them. Dr. Béla Schick, head of the pediatric service, approved the idea and such conferences once a week, with the workers in the medical wards, were arranged. Home conditions are reported, and problems having direct bearing on the welfare of the patients are discussed. We hope soon to extend this to the surgical wards.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

A survey was made of 104 of the pay cases in the children's pavilion to ascertain whether to make these slight service or intensive cases, with the following results:

Of 89 "B" cases paying $7 a week, 25 were intensive, 64 were slight service; of 11 "D" cases paying $14 a week, one was intensive, 10 were slight service; of four "E" cases paying $21 a week, none were intensive, four were slight service. We therefore concluded that all the "D" and "E" cases could be made slight service cases and in consequence less home visiting would be needed.

As has been customary in past years, special attention was given the children during the Summer months. We were successful in sending a large group of children to the country, and for those who were in poor physical condition we provided extra milk and eggs, so that they might better withstand the severe heat.

On December 21st an exhibit was held on the roof of the children's pavilion to show some of the articles which had been made by the convalescent children under the guidance of the kindergartner. It was encouraging to see how much constructive work can be accomplished when the children are convalescing, even in the very short time before their discharge. Besides the different pieces of handiwork on exhibition, such as a doll's house (on which all the children worked), vases, dolls' clothes, desk set, etc., the children decorated the room for the occasion. We are planning to introduce some health teachings in connection with this work, as we feel the period of convalescence furnishes an opportune time to sow the first seeds of hygienic living.

The children's health class, which was originally an unspecialized health clinic, although still considering itself as such and accepting all types of cases, is becoming known more and more for its success in dealing with conduct cases and cases of abnormal psychology. Formerly the clientele was derived from the neighborhood, but now a great many of the children come from great distances and need more intensive study. We are forced to restrict the number of admissions to nine each week and turn away more cases than are admitted. The psychiatric worker has devoted her time largely to a group of children of normal intelligence but with abnormal psychological tendencies. Fully half of our cases present school problems and this necessitates visiting the schools as well as the homes.

The volunteer workers continue to give their valuable assistance each Wednesday. The speech class, which is so ably and generously conducted by Miss Pastel and an assistant, consists now of about 175 children. Miss Schulman is again giving mental tests one-half day a week, and Miss Thompson, of the Psychological Department at Columbia University, has for the past few months given one full day a week. Even with such generous volunteer service, our chief problem is to have all the necessary mental tests made; 139 mental tests were taken last year and 166 are on the waiting list for tests which were ordered as far back as April, 1922. These figures point to the need for a paid psychologist. During December the clinic moved into new and larger quarters designed especially to fit its needs and activities. This has solved the problem of noise and overcrowding, while the larger space and adequate arrangement increase the educational facilities. We are looking forward to a year of greater activity amid such pleasant and convenient surroundings.

The activities in the children's cardiac clinic have continued much the same as in previous years. As usual, there have been two special classes at Public School No. 168 where a segregated group of over 50 cardiac children was given intensive care during the school period. This care has been extended over the Summer vacation as well when a play school, under the able guidance of the Federation for Child Study and with the co-operation of the Board of Education, was maintained at Public School No. 4 in the Bronx. We also have under careful observation a control group of 50 cardiac children who are not, however, in special classes, but are scattered through the public schools in the district. This segregated and control group together constitute only one-third of the total number of children cared for in the children's cardiac clinic.

All the children attending the cardiac classes have been given dental care at the Federation Settlement under the direction of Dr. Leo Kossin who so kindly volunteered his services.

A most interesting study of the adjustment to normal conditions of living of a group of 24 adolescent cardiac cases under our care, was made by Miss Tupper, a student in the Department of Nursing and Health at Teacher's College, as part of the requirements of her curriculum.

In February a trade school for cardiac girls was opened. Many of our girls who did not do well in public school entered the trade school and improved greatly in every way. The Association for the Prevention and Relief of Heart Disease is now planning to open a trade school for boys.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

The evening clinic of the Adult Cardiac Department was discontinued some time ago. Our social worker has made a special effort to persuade the boys and girls discharged from the Children's Cardiac Clinic to remain under medical supervision, but it is very difficult to get them to come regularly, as many of them work during the day.

The work in the Tuberculosis Clinic has been somewhat reorganized, and in place of having three nurses and a part-time clerical worker, there are now two nurses and a full-time secretary. The work with the patients is very intensive, a complete physical examination being part of the routine on every new case. A daily sheet with the names of all active cases is kept in the clinic, so that each doctor can see why and when his cases have been visited.

Due to better economic conditions we have not found the need to give as much financial assistance to our tuberculous patients as in the past, but our workers have endeavored to do more intensive medical social work with the families as a whole. A Children's Health Club has been started, which meets in the clinic every Wednesday, and although there are few members at present, they are so interested that we have every reason to believe there will be many added to the list before long. One of our social workers gives a short talk and tries to encourage the children to eat the proper food, to keep their teeth and bodies in good condition and to try to gain in weight. We hope to organize a mother's club in the near future.

It is now five years since social service workers were appointed to follow up luetic cases. The following is a concise report of the work accomplished during that period in this field of our activities:

Total number of patients registered	1878
Patients retained.....	854
Cases closed.....	1024
1. Non-luetic	11
Patients treated for some other condition than lues.
2. Died	36
3. Referred to other hospitals	112
Patients lived too far away to come here regularly for treatment.
4. Referred to Night Clinics	90
Working during the day so could not attend clinic.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

5. Referred to private physicians 140
Some because they could not come during the day, and others because they could afford private physicians.
6. Moved out of town 144
Patients given a list of clinics in the city to which they moved and instructed to report there for treatment. Also to have their new doctors communicate with us.
7. Refused treatment 122
Came to clinic but refused treatment because of fear of after effects.
8. Failed to attend clinic 133
These patients were followed up at home by workers, and, although repeatedly promising to come for treatments, failed to do so.
9. Could not be located 122
Patients either gave wrong addresses or moved and neglected to notify us.
10. Not returned to clinic for 1½ years..... 36
Last Wassermans were negative.

Contact cases brought in through follow up of social worker 1137

Positive.....302 Negative.....935

This often entails a great many visits to a home, as it is not always easy to persuade the other members of the family to come here for examination, especially when they are apparently well.

All positive cases are registered with the Department of Health.

Early stage, actively infectious cases who refuse treatment or fail to reappear are reported to the Department of Health.

In our Orthopedic Department we have secured splendid co-operation from the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children. We have referred children who were in need of appliances to the Association and they have been most generous in granting our recommendations.

Our corrective exercise class has again been held in the Heckscher Building. At the request of the Heckscher Foundation we have enlisted the interest of several of our physicians who have given their services to the Foundation for an hour every week, examining the children who desire admission to the gymnasium and swimming pool. Next fall we hope to have the corrective exercise class meet at the Hospital.

In order to interest the parents in the work which we are doing, we arranged for a mothers' meeting at which the children demonstrated their exercises, and Dr. Ira S. Wile and Dr. Edgar Oppenheimer addressed them. A number of pediatricians were present and showed keen interest in this activity.

Notwithstanding its wide prevalence, mental disease has been one of the latest specialties to engage the attention of physicians, and the Mental Health Class has been established as a special department in the Dispensary for only three years. Mental disease, even more than physical sickness, influences family and social relationships. Because of the intimate connection of aberrations of the mind with social difficulties, the Mental Health Class has brought new and intricate problems to our attention. In psychiatric social cases, where perhaps more than in any other type of case the worker comes in contact with the personal prejudices, opinions and attachments of the various members of the family, the task of aiding the family is infinitely difficult and requires much patience, tact and tolerance. Quite aside from the inherent intricacies of approach to mental cases, the means of alleviation or remedy are not usually so clear-cut as in physical troubles, where the individual can be handled according to more or less prescribed courses—admission to a hospital, orthopedic apparatus, operation, etc. No such routine is applicable to the usual mental case unless the physician decides it to be a matter of commitment to an institution. After expert medical advice has been obtained, the agencies which the social service worker can call upon to assist her in the actual treatment are few indeed. No hospital or home exists which accepts mild mental cases, though a few of the convalescent homes can be induced to receive "neurasthenics." Mental symptoms are often due to poverty, to unemployment, to the clash between the old and the new generations, especially among the youthful native born, whose ideals clash with that of their immigrant parents, and to constitutional mental deficiency. For these groups there is an urgent need of a free institution, where these persons, not insane, sensitive to and repelled by intimate association with insane people, could be sent. Contrary to a general misconception, minor mental disorders are quite as prevalent among the poor as the well-to-do.

The out-patient mental clinic cares successfully for many border-line cases, but mental disorders continue over a long period of years and require the attention and assistance of social workers for a greater number of visits, each for a longer period of time than it is customary to give in other sicknesses. Moreover, the results are often intangible, transient and disappointing. But if mild cases can be cared for without placing patients in institutions, the gain to both the state and the individual well recompenses the effort expended. Undoubtedly with the extension of the scope of the Mental Health Class, additional social service workers, in addition to the one already supplied, will be necessary. The physicians continue to urge us to establish occupational therapy in connection with the Mental Health Class, and we hope to put this into effect during the coming year.

We have been as fortunate as in past years in obtaining the services of a large and loyal group of volunteers. The establishment of a library for the ward patients by one of our volunteers, who spends every morning at the Hospital distributing books to the patients, has been an interesting and valuable addition to the various types of volunteer service.

During the fall a meeting was held which was attended by almost all the volunteers. As many of the volunteers are familiar with only the particular service in which they are engaged, we felt that we wanted to acquaint them not only with the various types of volunteer service, but with the purpose of the Social Service Department and its sphere of activity in the Hospital. We took the opportunity to express our appreciation of their work and to engage their further helpful assistance.

The Junior Committee brought flowers for the ward patients and gave happiness to many of our children by arranging two Summer outings. During the Winter holidays they gave parties which were attended by 400 children.

Under the chairmanship of Miss Edith Sachs, the method of handling cases for employment has been reorganized. Formerly the worker in each clinic handled her own cases; now all cases for employment are being referred through the assistant head worker who sends the applicants to the bureau best suited to their needs. Through personal visits, the Department is in close co-operation with all the bureaus for the handicapped in the city. For the month of December, which was the trial month of the new system, there were 32 applicants, of whom 11 have been employed. The 32 applicants were referred to nine different agencies.

It has always been our policy to give relief extending over only a short period of time—approximately three months. Cases needing relief for a longer period have always been referred to the charities.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

An interesting survey was made of 16 cases to whom we gave this temporary relief. The amount expended was $731.25. The needs filled were:

School Outfit	1
Food	4
Rent	3
Rent and Food	7
Rent, Food and Insurance.....	1

The results were as follows:

Repaid in full	1
Repaying	1
Turned over to an organization	1

Self-supporting, but lost position.....	1

During the past year a Conference Committee on Social Service was formed to bring to the attention of the physicians the problems of medical social service and to get the benefit of their advice and co-operation in solving them. The committee consists of three members of the Medical Board, appointed by the President of the Medical Board; three members of the Social Service Auxiliary, appointed by the President of the Auxiliary, as well as the Director of the Hospital (ex-officio) and the head worker of the Social Service Department (ex-officio). The first meeting was held in December. It was fruitful in arranging to have the social workers meet some of the physicians once a week at a definite time to make rounds with them and discuss such cases as are in need of our care. It was also decided to have a short summary of the social history attached to the medical chart and filed with the latter. In cases where patients wished to leave against advice, the Social Service Department was to be notified so that the workers might use their influence to prevail upon the patients to remain in the Hospital as long as the physicians thought necessary.

In order to meet any emergencies which might arise, the main social service office has for the past year been kept open on Sundays and holidays, with one worker and a pupil nurse on duty. So far, the work we have been called upon to do does not seem to warrant keeping a worker on duty, as it means a loss of her time during the week when more work can be accomplished.

This year, as in previous years, four pupil nurses have been assigned to Social Service for a three months' period. We have tried to give them a thorough insight into our work, and in this we have been assisted greatly by the kindness of Dr. Sigmund Epstein, Dr. Irving Roth, Dr. Max Taschman and others, who held round table conferences at which they discussed the particular social problems of their respective clinics. The course of study outlined for the student nurses consists of visiting outside agencies, field work, reports and required reading, also discussions of cases. Besides their work in the main office, children's social service, health class and tuberculosis clinic, the students also have the privilege of spending one day each in our other departments. The nurses are requested to become acquainted with the different co-operating agencies and report about same. They keep a daily record which is submitted for inspection weekly. In addition each one has been given some definite case work, and they report to the Committee at the weekly meeting. Before the student nurses finish their course, an examination is given. The results have been most gratifying, and demonstrated that the students have an intelligent understanding of the problems of medical social service.

The pupil nurses again attended a series of lectures which were given by the following speakers, to whom we wish to express our thanks for their kind services: Miss Agnes S. Ward gave an illustrated lecture on "The Human Side of the City's Activities"; Dr. Bailey B. Burritt, "Health Activities of a Relief Organization"; Dr. Katherine B. Davis, "Responsibility of the Public Health Worker Toward Delinquency"; Miss Anne Goodrich spoke about the new building of the Henry Street Settlement; Dr. Max Taschman spoke on tuberculosis work; Dr. Bernard Glueck, "Some Mental Hygiene Aspects of the Home and School"; Dr. William St. Lawrence, "Relation of Social Service to the Management of Heart Disease."

Under the auspices of the Social Service Department, a course of four lectures on the "Problems of Childhood" was given by Dr. Ira S. Wile. Much interest in this course of lectures was evinced by a large audience, composed of volunteers and professional workers of other social organizations.

We co-operated with the School for Social Work in taking three students for six weeks during the summer session. These students did their field work in the department and spent approximately three days a week with us.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

Visitors are coming constantly to the department to observe our work, and considerable time is given to them in explaining our various activities.

The time of our staff workers is so occupied in fulfilling their daily work that they do not find the opportunity to attend the lectures on medical social service which are frequently offered by other organizations, and which would be enlightening to them. Miss Lissauer therefore asked Dr. Sidney Goldstein to give a course of lectures to our workers on "Social Diagnosis and Social Treatment," which was very interesting and helpful to them.

Medical Social Service is of comparatively recent growth. The work is not standardized, and the field of its activities includes many problems of medical and social significance. The Hospital has been the recipient of the Harriet Meyer Memorial Fund—a fund of $25,000 given by Mr. Eugene Meyer—the interest of which is to be used for experimental work in the Social Service Department. We have ample opportunities to use this fund, and we hope to avail ourselves of the privilege during the coming year.

In closing my report, I wish to express my appreciation of the interest which the Board of Trustees of the Hospital and Dr. Goldwater have shown in the development of our activities; of the earnest work of Miss Lissauer and the staff workers, which has brought about such excellent results; and of the splendid co-operation of the members of the Board of the Auxiliary.

Respectfully submitted,

RUTH M. COOK,

President of the Social Service Auxiliary.

Extracts from the Constitution on Endowed Beds and Endowments

A Contribution of $2,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Life Bed. Such a contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the general wards of the main Hospital, free of charge.

A Contribution of $3,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Memorial Bed. Such a contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the main Hospital free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by the said donor in his or her last will and testament, or by any other instrument under seal. In the event of such successor being appointed, the rights hereinbefore mentioned shall continue for a period of not over fifty years from the date of such contribution—such period, however, not to end before ten years from the death of the donor.

A Contribution of $5,000 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Perpetual Bed in the Children's Pavilion. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the wards of the Children's Pavilion, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by said donor in his or her last will and testament or by any other instrument under seal.

A Contribution of $7,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Perpetual Bed, but where, under the provision of any will executed prior to March 20, 1921, the sum of $5,000 or more is bequeathed to the Hospital in payment of any Perpetual Bed, the Board of Trustees may, at their option, accept such sum in payment of such Perpetual Bed. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the general wards of the main Hospital, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by said donor in his or her last will and testament, or by any other instrument under seal.

When a corporation is the donor, the privilege shall expire at the end of twenty-five years from the date of such contribution.

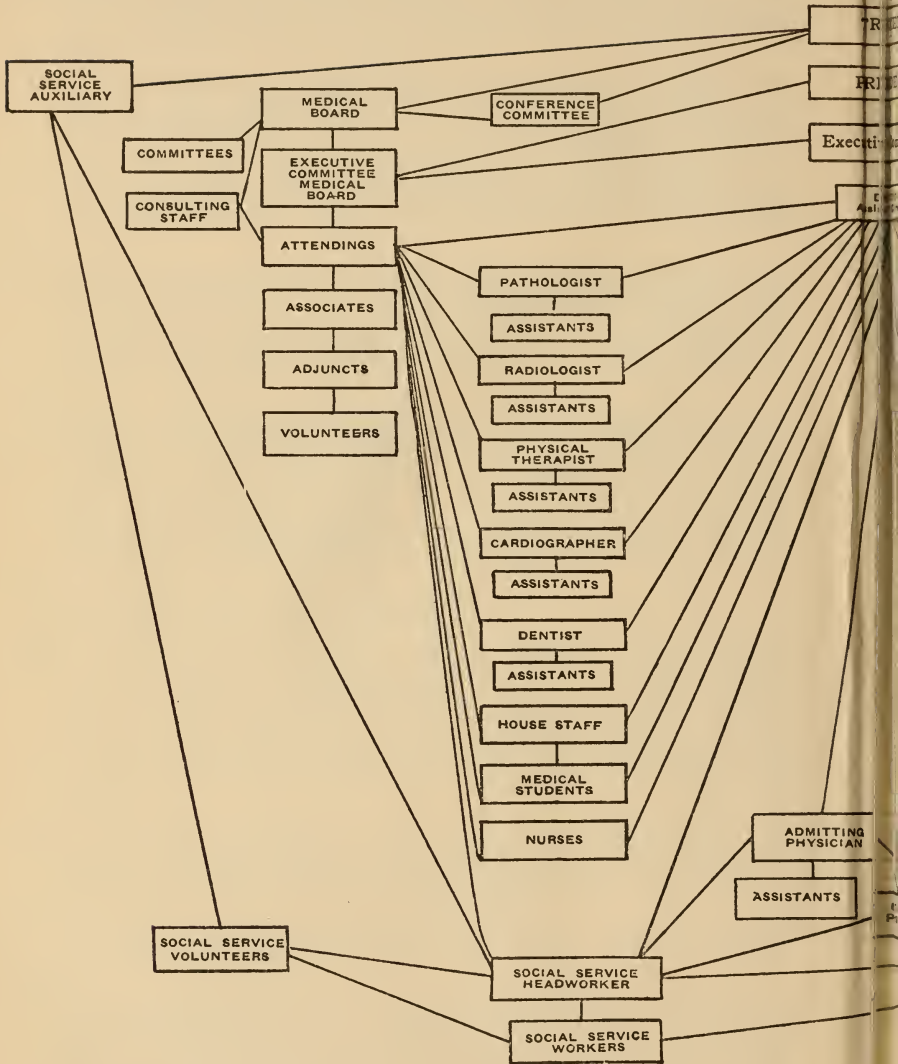

Tablets to commemorate the endowment of Life and Memorial Beds shall be placed in the ward selected by the donor, subject to the rules of the Hospital. Tablets for Life Beds shall be maintained during the life of the donor, tablets for Memorial Beds for a period not beyond fifty years from the date of their endowment, such a period, however, not to end before ten years from the death of the donor. The endowment of a Perpetual Bed shall entitle the donor, or his legal representative, to have a tablet placed in the ward selected by him, or by them, or to have the endowment recorded on a tablet provided for that purpose in the corridor of the Hospital; such tablets shall be maintained in perpetuity.

A donor may change a Life Bed endowed by him or her to a Memorial Bed by making an additional contribution of $1,000, or to a Perpetual Bed by making an additional contribution of $5,000, or may change a Memorial Bed to a Perpetual Bed by making an additional contribution of $4,000.

No patient shall occupy a Life, Memorial or Perpetual Bed unless he shall comply with the current rules of the Hospital and be a proper subject for treatment according to its regulations.

An endowment for the establishing of any special fund may be accepted by a resolution of the Board of Trustees. Such fund may be created either for a special purpose, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to such purpose only, or under the name of one or more persons, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to the general purposes of the Hospital. Such endowment funds shall be kept by the Treasurer as special accounts. Contributions to existing funds may be made at any time, but no funds shall be created with an initial endowment of less than Ten Thousand Dollars.

HISTORICAL NOTE

The Mount Sinai Hospital was organized and incorporated in 1852 for "benevolent, charitable and scientific purposes." The Hospital's first building was a small private dwelling in 28th Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, which accommodated 28 patients. In 1871 the Hospital completed and occupied, at Lexington Avenue, 66th and 67th Streets, a building having a capacity of 200 beds. The Dispensary or Out-Patient Department was inaugurated in 1876.

The Mount Sinai Training School for Nurses, in affiliation with the Hospital, was incorporated March, 1881; the title of the School was changed, in 1923, to the Mount Sinai School of Nursing.

In 1886, a District Medical Service was inaugurated. Provision for the admission and care of Private Patients was made for the first time in 1886.

In 1893 the Pathological Department was established and a small laboratory was equipped for its use.

The cornerstone of the group of ten hospital buildings occupying the block bounded by Fifth and Madison Avenues, 100th and 101st Streets, was laid May 22nd, 1901, and the buildings were completed and occupied March 15th, 1904.

The work of the Social Service Department was begun in 1907.

An X-Ray machine was installed in the Lexington Avenue Hospital in 1900; and was operated by a member of the Surgical Staff; in 1910 a separate X-Ray department was formed.

In 1910 the Out-Patient Building was altered from a three-story to a five-story building, and the Nurses' Home from a six-story to an eight-story building. At the same time the present Isolation Wards were erected.

Roof wards for out-door treatment were erected on the Medical and Surgical Pavilions in 1912.

A Dental Department was equipped and opened in 1910.

In 1913, the erection of seven additional buildings south of 100th Street was begun; the last three buildings of the new group, namely, the Private Pavilion, the Children's Pavilion, and the Auditorium, were completed and occupied in the spring of 1922.

Post-graduate medical instruction was formally organized in 1923, in affiliation with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University.

HISTORICAL NOTE

The Hospital now has accommodations for 650 patients, not including 19 beds in the Receiving Ward.

Minutes of the Annual Meeting of the Members of
THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL OF THE CITY OF
NEW YORK

HELD MARCH 22nd, 1925

A quorum being present, the meeting was called to order by the President, Mr. George Blumenthal.

On motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the reading of the minutes of the annual meeting, held March 9, 1924, and the reading of the Treasurer's report was dispensed with. The President then presented the annual report.

On motion made by Mr. Paul Herzog, seconded by Mr. Morris Fatman, it was unanimously resolved that the President's report be adopted and approved by the meeting; that all the actions and proceedings of the officers and Board of Trustees be ratified, confirmed and approved, and that the members of the Hospital assembled here express their thanks to the officers and Board of Trustees for the prevision and sagacity with which they have met the problems which have confronted them during the past year.

It was further ordered that the report be printed and sent to the members of the Hospital.

Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research addressed the meeting on the "Future Progress of Medicine," Dr. Edwin Beer, President of the Medical Board of Mount Sinai Hospital, spoke on the "Activities of the Medical Staff During 1924" and Dr. William H. Welch, Head of the School of Hygiene of Johns Hopkins Hospital spoke on the progress of Mount Sinai Hospital.

On motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the meeting adjourned.

DEWITT MILLHAUSER,
Secretary.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

In the report submitted to you last year it was suggested that if the Hospital had erred in the matter of acquiring additional land for future development it was in purchasing too little rather than too much. We have since reached the conclusion that this statement was only too true, and we have sought to rectify the situation by purchasing 175 feet on the north side of 98th Street, which gives the Hospital a plot between 98th and 99th Streets having a frontage of 100 feet on Fifth Avenue, 300 feet on the south side of 99th Street, and 175 feet on the north side of 98th Street. This additional property was acquired at a cost of $350,000, all of which is being contributed by your Trustees. As reported to you two years ago, the Trustees contributed $750,000 toward the fund necessary for the construction of a new Training School Building, and we obtained in the past year from generous friends of the Institution a like amount for this fund, so that we have at our command practically all of the money needed for the new building. The $750,000 just referred to, was obtained from less than 400 subscribers in the short space of less than two and a half months, and the subscriptions were all secured by personal efforts of the Trustees, and without any expense.

Plans for the new School of Nursing are now being prepared, and, conditions in the building trade permitting, we expect to start construction in the spring of 1926 with the hope of being able to occupy the new building in 1927. We shall then have the opportunity to carry to completion the programme mapped out so many years ago, and shall be able to arrange for the greatly needed enlargement of the semi-private service; to put our surgical centre or operating department, now lamentably deficient in accommodation, on a sounder working basis; to furnish better dormitories and recreation rooms for our internes; and to provide necessary space for the therapeutic and laboratory departments. The new building for the School of Nursing will accommodate about 450 nurses, and will include the complete equipment of a modern school.

In a short time my connection with the Hospital will have reached a third of a century. I have lately made a study of the growth of the Institution during that period. The story is so amazing that I think its brief presentation may interest you. Before giving the figures I wish to quote from the President's report submitted to the Annual Meeting of December 1, 1893, as follows:

"While the health of the city has been unusually good, the fact is that our facilities have, as usual, been taxed to their fullest limits. It is possible that the hard times have driven many, who under other conditions could have afforded home treatment, to seek refuge in our Institution, and we are fulfilling the mission for which we were destined, when, by the liberal contributions from our friends, we were enabled to accomplish so much good, as the following statistics demonstrate:"

Instead of quoting by themselves the statistics of 1892, referred to in the statement just quoted, I have set them down side by side with those of 1924. The figures speak for themselves.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The remarkable increase in the assets of the Hospital has caused the Board of Trustees to look into the safeguards surrounding them. Under the laws and regulations as they have heretofore existed, the members of the Board of Trustees, which has complete responsibility for the administration of the Hospital and its properties, were elected by the members at the annual meetings. As a matter of actual practice, this was a theory rather than a fact, inasmuch as vacancies were filled during the year, and the annual meeting merely ratified these appointments and re-elected the members of the Board who were named by the Board of Trustees. It has become increasingly difficult from year to year to have sufficient votes cast by the members to constitute a quorum, and since the formation of Federation this situation has become even more critical.

In the first instance, there has been no addition to the list of members as it existed when Federation was formed, and there has been a steady dwindling through death and resignation. When Federation was formed it was thought that through re-designation each year, the contact between the members and the individual institutions would thus be kept alive, and it was also thought that new members of Federation would designate individual societies with which they wished to become affiliated through Federation. This has, however, not been the case, and a serious question has been raised as to whether the societies still have any hold on members who have not declared themselves as such since the formation of Federation some seven to eight years ago.

It seemed most unwise to your Board of Trustees to allow the perpetuation of its membership to be dependent upon any such uncertain constituency as indicated above, and therefore after careful study of the situation, and after consultation with our attorneys, we reached the conclusion that the future of the institution would be better safeguarded if the Board of Trustees were a self-perpetuating body, as is the case in many philanthropic and educational institutions. A bill conferring the power to make this change was passed by both branches of the New York Legislature, and was signed by Governor Smith on February 17, 1925.

The terms of a revised membership status will be submitted to you for approval at the next annual meeting, the time having been too short to present them to you today in proper form.

In the hope of promptly discovering and remedying shortcomings in the service of the private pavilion, we address letters to all patients upon their discharge, asking for criticisms and suggestions. Sometimes, though quite infrequently, we receive complaints in answer to our inquiries, and these with few exceptions refer to matters over which we have little or no control, such as street noises, etc. On the other hand, we receive each year hundreds of letters warmly commending the service, and I take pleasure in quoting briefly from two typical letters:

"January 14, 1925.

I wish to take this opportunity to tell you how much I appreciate the prompt attention given my request in the case of one of our employees, who was suffering from pneumonia.

This young man called on me today, and could not say enough about the wonderful treatment he received while a patient at the Hospital, and is fully aware that the rapidity with which he was admitted to the Hospital, and the wonderful treatment he received while there, saved his life.

Cases of this kind show the wonderful work that your Institution is doing, and make me feel all the keener the need of giving your Institution all possible financial support."

"February 9, 1925.

In reply to your letter of the 4th I wish to say that it has been my misfortune to have been the guest of three hospitals in New York City, but for efficient service, good food, and kind and obliging nurses, your Institution surpasses them so far that I cannot make a comparison."

Since the establishment of the Mount Sinai Hospital Fund for Medical Education we have been able to extend and to systematize the medical education work of the Hospital. It is a great error to assume, as many people do, that medical education in this country is confined to hospitals which are either owned or controlled by university medical schools, and which are used for the teaching of undergraduate students. Twenty years ago the most pressing problem in medical education in the United States was the problem of undergraduate teaching, which at that time lacked standardization and control, and which upon the whole was conducted on a much lower plane than undergraduate medical teaching in the most advanced European countries. Since 1900 marked progress has been made in undergraduate teaching, and today the actual treatment of the sick in this country is doubtless influenced far more by the mental habits formed by physicians after their graduation than by the knowledge which they acquire as undergraduate students. The key to nearly everything that makes for efficient medical practice is now in the hands of non-university hospitals because they are overwhelmingly in the majority.

In a paper on the educational duties and opportunities of the non-university staff or closed hospital, Dr. Goldwater recently suggested that "without sacrificing those elements of strength which are characteristic of the well organized staff hospital, the closed hospital should utilize every possible means for widening its professional influence. Staff positions should be created for as many clinical and laboratory assistants as the service can healthfully absorb; the appointment of volunteers for carrying on intensive studies which are beyond the capacity or the available time of the regular staff, should be encouraged. Invitations should be extended to the practitioners of the neighborhood to attend clinical and pathological conferences; formal post-graduate teaching should be organized, under university auspices, if possible, independently of any medical school, if necessary. In some cases facilities for the treatment of private patients may, without detriment to the Hospital, be placed at the disposal of an associate or courtesy staff. Diagnostic aid should be extended to unattached practitioners. A reasonable rotation in office should be insured by the adoption of rules prescribing age and service limits." These are, in fact, the principles by which Mount Sinai Hospital is guided in its efforts to advance medical education. The fruitful results of our policy are evident in many directions, but may be seen especially in the immediate recognition which is accorded by both lay and professional public to graduates of our house staff who elect to practice outside of New York, and by the striking success of the brief but systematic courses of instruction for practicing physicians not attached to the hospital staff, which are now regularly given in affiliation with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University.

The interest of the medical profession in the systemic septic infections which frequently result from tooth abscesses and from pyorrhea, is reflected in a steadily increasing pressure on the dental department. Although organized primarily for the service of hospital patients, the dental department has been called upon repeatedly to co-operate with the out-patient department, and by extending itself to the utmost has been able to treat a limited number of particularly urgent and meritorious dispensary cases. In order to meet the remaining dental needs of our dispensary patients it has been necessary to rely upon the resources of outside institutions. Excellent co-operation has been obtained in this way in a large number of cases, but in many instances it has been impossible to obtain prompt attention for patients who have been urgently in need of it. In these circumstances it is a great pleasure and relief to be able to announce that one of the members of the Board, Mr. David A. Schulte, has very generously agreed to contribute the sum of $6,000 per annum for ten years for the support of a dental clinic for children. This clinic will supplement the existing dental department in the Hospital, and the two departments will be jointly administered by the Hospital dentist and a staff of volunteers and paid assistants. Mr. Schulte will not only support the clinic, but is defraying the whole cost of the initial equipment. A careful study of the requirements of the department has been made and it is proposed to organize the work so as to cover, as special branches, preventive dentistry; oral diagnosis, both clinical and radiographic; oral surgery, including fillings and root therapy; pathology, including bacteriological diagnosis, and vaccine therapy; and prosthetic dentistry, including splints and dentures. Each of these branches will be handled by a specially qualified member of the dental staff.

The Hospital is always glad to co-operate with organizations which are engaged in any form of public service which has either a direct or indirect bearing upon the health of the community, by placing the Auditorium at their disposal for lectures and conferences. A notable series of gatherings was held in the Auditorium during the months of December, January and February under the auspices of the Women's Division of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies.

During the last week of April and the first week of May, Professor Ludwig Aschoff of Freiburg, Germany, who is universally recognized as the world's outstanding pathologist, delivered a series of nine lectures, dealing with a variety of subjects. Two of these lectures constituted the Edward G. Janeway Lectures for 1924.

The lectures have been incorporated in a recently published volume which contains other important lectures delivered by Professor Aschoff, in various medical centers of the country, such as the Lane Lectures of the Leland Stanford University and the Mayo Foundation Lectures.

The need of a lecture room, especially equipped for pathological demonstrations and conferences, has been so great that the Board has been repeatedly petitioned by the staff to supply this requirement. During the past winter, as in the preceding year, from 120 to 150 doctors, eager to attend these demonstrations, have crowded into a room which is large enough to hold comfortably not more than 30, or at most, 40 persons. The Board has long desired to remedy these conditions, but has been unable to do so owing to lack of funds. At last, however, relief is in sight, for a gift to cover the cost has been provided by a friend of the Hospital. This has enabled the Board to prepare to erect during the coming summer a pathological lecture and demonstration room, which will afford reasonably comfortable accommodations for 150 persons. This room will be built as an extension to the Adolph Lewisohn Laboratory Building.

As already mentioned, the total expenditures of the Hospital in 1924, including the training school and social service departments, amounted to..... $1,428,478.96

Our total receipts applicable to current expenditures of which Federation contributed $420,274
aggregated 1,356,847.55

Leaving a deficit of..... $71,631.41

which we had to provide for by taking the amount from our permanent fund.

All contributions received for the endowment of wards, beds, and for special purposes, should go to and remain in the permanent fund because such donations carry with them the obligation to maintain specific work. It is unfortunate that our inadequate income does not permit us to carry out its obligation, and at some future time serious efforts must be made to restore to the permanent fund the amounts borrowed from it from time to time.

At the beginning of 1924 Federation was confronted with a deficit of over $1,250,000, and unless this sum was raised the tentative allowance to the constituent societies could only be paid in proportion to the funds on hand. The business council of Federation undertook the task to wipe out said deficit, and by indefatigable effort succeeded in its endeavors and even surpassed its goal. It has deserved by this remarkable feat the thankful recognition not only of every institution, but of every member of the community and we are glad to record our appreciation.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

We record the following endowment of beds:

Perpetual Beds in the Main Hospital—

In Memory of Walter J. Rose—Dedicated by his mother	$7,500.00
Endowed by Abraham Erlanger.....	7,500.00
In Memory of Gabriel Mayer, Antoinette Mayer and Otto L. Mayer—Founded by provision in the will of Otto L. Mayer.....	7,500.00
Endowed by the Estate of Frederick Hermann—balance	2,500.00

Perpetual Beds in the Children's Pavilion—

In Memory of Constance Davis Mordecai—2 beds Founded by Benjamin Mordecai.....	10,000.00
In Memory of George and Hannah Heyman Founded by provision in the will of Hannah Heyman	5,000.00
In Memory of Joseph and Babet Semel Founded by provision in the will of Mrs. George Heyman	5,000.00
Founded by Cecelie Einstein.....	5,000.00

Memorial Beds—

In Memory of Herman and Getta Heidelberg Founded by provision in the will of Herman Heidelberg	2,500.00
In Memory of Clarence A. Henriques Founded by provision in the will of Irene A. Henriques	3,500.00

Donations and legacies appear in full in the pamphlet distributed this morning and I therefore mention here only a few of the more important ones:

Executors of Daniel Kops for special fund.....	$10,000.00
Daniel Kops by his will for special fund.....	10,000.00
Waldemar Kops for special fund.....	10,000.00
Mrs. Florence Blumenthal for specific purposes....	30,000.00
Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Rosenfeld—additional contribution to the Florette and Ernst Rosenfeld Foundation for further expansion of the Radio-Therapy and Radium Department.....	15,000.00
(Making their total donation to this fund $76,000.)

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Adolph Lewisohn on account of cost of Pathological Building	15,000.00
Martin Erdmann for special purpose.....	10,000.00
Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sachs for the equipment of the Department of Radiology.....	9,459.29
(Total gift $24,595.68.)
Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Goodhart, to be added to the Philip J. and Hattie L. Goodhart Endowment Fund	5,000.00
Bernard M. Baruch towards deficit.....	5,000.00
The United Hospital Fund.....	41,839.00

Early in January we received from Mr. and Mrs. William I. Waiter another gift of $25,000 for the Endowment Fund for the Children's Out-Patient Department, making the total donation of these generous friends of the Hospital for this purpose $100,000.

To all those who have thus bestowed their benefactions on our Institution we tender our heartfelt thanks, and we again wish to point out to the community that Mount Sinai is by no means the rich Institution some people picture it, but is always hard pressed for funds, and liberal support from all sources is most essential to put us in a position to meet the just demands the community makes upon us, none of which should remain unfulfilled.

Dr. Bernard Sachs and Dr. N. E. Brill, both having reached the age limit, have retired from active Hospital duty and have joined the consulting staff. Dr. Sachs and Dr. Brill have been connected with the Hospital in various positions for 31 years, and during this period have given generously of their time and talent to the Institution's needs; through their unfailing devotion and by their uniform courtesy in all their Hospital relations, they have endeared themselves not only to their colleagues and to the Trustees, but to the patients and employees of the Hospital. We shall always look back with pleasure to having had for so many years the privilege of their co-operation. Both Dr. Sachs and Dr. Brill have held the office of President of the Medical Board, another evidence of the high esteem in which they are held by the staff of the Hospital.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The following appointments and promotions on the Medical Staff were made:

Dr. Edgar Oppenheimer, Associate Orthopedist.

Dr. Cyril Barnert, Associate Ophthalmic Surgeon.

Dr. Isadore Zadek, Associate Orthopedist.

Dr. Charles J. Imperatori, Associate Laryngologist.

Dr. Harold T. Hyman, Adjunct Physician.

Dr. Seth Selig, Adjunct Orthopedist.

Dr. I. Goldstein, and Dr. J. S. Unger, Adjunct Ophthalmic Surgeons.

Dr. P. M. Lund, Curator of X-ray Museum.

Only last year I announced with great satisfaction that Mr. Alfred Jaretzki had joined our Board. He at once became deeply interested in the affairs of the Hospital. His quick perception, his keen sense of justice and his innate modesty made us feel proud to have him associated with us. Unfortunately, his connection with our institution was too brief; death removed him from our midst a week ago after a brief illness. Appropriate Resolutions expressing the sentiments of his colleagues have been adopted by the Board and will be printed in full in the Annual Report.

Not being able any longer to give the necessary time to their services in the Hospital, Dr. Percy W. Roberts, Associate Orthopedist, and Dr. A. S. Tenner, Adjunct Ophthalmic Surgeon, resigned their positions, and we wish to express here our thanks for the faithful service they rendered the institution for so many years.

Mr. Forsch, having been elected Third Vice-President, resigned the office of Secretary to the Board, and was succeeded as Secretary by Mr. Millhauser.

Since 1898 Mount Sinai Hospital has received compensation from the city for taking care of certain classes of patients. The first year such support was given by the city it amounted to $9,135. In 1919 it reached the sum of $73,492. A change in the city's policy toward privately managed hospitals has taken place since, and it is unfortunate to have to report that for 1924 we received from that source only the insignificant amount of $23,921. Thousands of cases which we handle would have to be taken care of by the city were we not assuming the burden, and we earnestly hope that a more liberal policy will again be adopted toward our Institution before long.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The active interest of your Trustees in the Hospital is constantly increasing, and most every Saturday afternoon finds from eight to ten trustees in the Board room discussing the work and the welfare of Mount Sinai.

Deep appreciation for the great service rendered to the Institution during the past year is expressed to the Ladies' Auxiliary headed by Mrs. Emil Frenkel; the Social Service Auxiliary, guided by Mrs. Alfred A. Cook and Mrs. Myron I. Borg; and the Mount Sinai School for Nursing, presided over by Mr. Hugo Blumenthal.

Mr. J. D. Mason of Messrs. Hoadly, Lauterbach & Johnson, has increased our debt of gratitude to him by his continued efficient attention to much of our legal work.

Our Director, Dr. Goldwater, our Assistant Directors, Dr. Bluestone and Dr. Turner, the Superintendent of Nurses, Miss Greener, and the heads of all other departments have given continued proofs of their interest in and faithfulness to Mount Sinai Hospital, and to them as well as to all the employees of the Institution we tender our thanks for their whole-hearted and effective co-operation.

An institution like Mount Sinai can never stand still. The march of progress must be continuous or a retrograde movement sets in. Your Trustees are fully alive to this situation and are trying their utmost to meet it. They cannot do it alone, and they therefore bespeak the continued support of the community, promising that they will never cease in their efforts fully to deserve it.

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,
President.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF ALFRED JARETZKI

At a stated meeting of the Board of Trustees of Mount Sinai Hospital, held on Sunday, March 15th, 1925, announcement was made of the death of Alfred Jaretzki, a Trustee of the Institution since 1923, whereupon it was resolved to express the sentiments of the members of the Board in the following minute:

It is with the deepest sorrow that we have learned of the death of Alfred Jaretzki, a Trustee of the Hospital since 1923.

During that period as a result of his vast experience and ability, his influence for good has made itself felt upon the Hospital, and his mature judgment and outstanding legal attainments have redounded greatly to the benefit of our Institution. His affable manner and modesty have won the affection and respect of his fellow-trustees and his loss will be keenly felt.

In the death of Alfred Jaretzki, the community has lost a splendid citizen.

To the members of his bereaved family we extend our heartfelt sympathy in the irreparable loss which they have sustained.

It was further resolved that the Board of Trustees attend the funeral in a body, that the flag of the Hospital be placed at half-mast until after the funeral, and that an engrossed copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased.

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,
President.

DEWITT MILLHAUSER,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE ACTIVITIES OF THE MEDICAL STAFF DURING THE YEAR 1924

During recent years it has been customary to make a brief report of the medical activities of the Hospital to be read at the Annual Meeting and incorporated in the Year Book published by the Hospital. With the co-operation of the members of the Medical Board, the following statement is prepared and respectfully submitted.

The numerous medical activities of our Hospital might be grouped under different headings, as international, national and domestic. During the past year there have been several hundred meetings in the Hospital devoted to the elucidation and discussion of medical matters. At several of these European scientists of international repute placed before our staff the results of intensive study spread over many years. Such lectures were given by Professor Aschoff on a variety of pathological studies, and in view of their great educational value, they were subsequently reproduced in book form. Professor Claude Regaud of the Curie Institute in Paris made a valuable address on radium and its uses. Dr. F. W. O'Connor told us of phases of medicine rarely seen and probably never recognized by the uninitiated and gave a brief review of ailments encountered in tropical climes. Professor W. Einthoven, whose work has been very important in the study of heart disease, spoke on the methods which bear his name. Professor J. Heyman of Stockholm, who has devoted years to the radio-therapy of cancer, produced a most lasting impression by his presentation of comparative surgical and radium results in certain types of this dread disease. In addition, Professors Michaelis and Anrep gave lectures on special work that they are doing. While we were thus fortunate in hearing from these and other well known students our Hospital reciprocated in a small measure as several members of the staff were invited to present the results and methods used by us, in several of the capitals of Europe.

In the fall of this year, the most important surgical meeting of national scope was held in this city and during the Congress of Surgeons, which was visited by over one thousand men, our Hospital Staff gave numerous clinical and operative demonstrations to visitors from the United States, Canada, South America and some of the distant Dominions. In this way the nature of our surgical work became known to the visitors and several of the clinics will appear in book form in the near future making a permanent record of the operative work and the spoken word. Another valuable national activity might be seen in the attendance of members of our staff at the National meetings, where presentations of work done by them, are made. Visits to out of town clinics, where our men are often asked to address the local society, help the Hospital to function as an educational institute.

When we turn our attention to the domestic activities of the various divisions of the Hospital, it seems impossible to do justice to what is going on, in these brief paragraphs. Moreover, it is scarcely fair or proper to attempt to group the work as if we were dealing with horticultural annuals. Work begun years ago may come to some positive or negative conclusion this current year, and work that is being actively followed now would possibly suffer premature amputation if we attempted to group it as the work of 1924. With this phase of the situation clearly understood, I have grouped the activities of the various services and have attempted a fair but sketchy outline of the medical studies and activities in the laboratories and wards of the Hospital.

Before entering into details concerning these activities, I must call attention to the fact that our staff has given numerous public clinics in the Auditorium and that weekly and monthly conferences are held in all departments. At these all the divisional or departmental staffs take part and the current work is analyzed. Very nearly one hundred such conferences are held each year and the discussions that take place are not only instructive and helpful but often very stimulating.

In the pathological and chemical laboratories, in addition to the routine clinical work of the Institution of a diagnostic character, considerable work independent of the routine has been carried out. Intimate contact between the wards of the Hospital and the laboratories exists by virtue of the fact that a large number of the Attending Staff are permanent laboratory associates and assistants.

Among the articles which have been published during the past year from the departments of general pathology and surgical pathology, the following may be mentioned: Kidney changes in pyloric obstruction; gumma of the mitral valve; several unusual and rare forms of sarcoma of the gastro-intestinal tract; tuberculoma of the caecum; perirenal angiosarcoma; folliculoid carcinoma of the ovary; pathology of solid tumors of the ovary; and, in collaboration with the medical service, a hitherto undescribed type of giant lymph follicle hyperplasia of lymph nodes and spleen.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL STAFF

The work in progress in these two departments includes: The antiprotozoal effect of certain fluorescent substances; studies on nephritis; pathology of the thyroid gland; changes in diseased Fallopian tubes in relation to sterility; experimental production of adenomatous lesions in the peritoneum; the effect of endometrial extracts on blood clot; various studies of the endometrium in connection with functional bleeding; primary tumors of the genito-urinary system. These departments have also taken an active part in organizing a museum for teaching purposes.

In the departments of bacteriology and clinical pathology, the following subjects are being investigated: Bacterial studies with special anaerobic methods on cases of obscure infections, erythema and endocarditis; further observations in epidemic encaphalitis; invasion of the blood stream by tubercle bacilli after operations on tuberculous organs; types of streptococci isolated from various infected organs, while studies on the distribution of blood platelets and observations on the end products in the destruction of red blood cells, especially bilirubin and urobilin, have been completed.

Four articles on the purification of antibodies have been published, two of which deal with the purification of typhoid agglutinin. It is expected that some practical application will follow the completion of the work of the purification of pneumonia antibody. The study of the toxic effects of the tetrahalogen-phenolphthaleins is of practical importance because of the widespread use of these substances in the liver function test and in the visualization of the gall-bladder by X-ray. A preliminary article "liver necrosis produced by tetrachlor-phenolphthalein and tetrabrom-phenolphthalein" is now in press.

An important article from the department of neuro-pathology was published, dealing with a hitherto unrecognized primary malignant tumor of the brain and cord, and named "spongioblastoma." A group of vascular lesions of the brain simulating cerebral neoplasms is being investigated, with the view of correlating the anatomical features with the clinical manifestations. Studies of brain lesions associated with valvular cardiac disease are also in progress.

The work in progress in the department of physiological chemistry is again varied in character, embracing the standardization of digitalis solutions (prescribed in the hospital) by pharmacobiological methods. Various phases of insulin action and its application in treatment and its oral administration are being studied, and the effect of trypsin on insulin and its bearing on the causation of diabetes are researches which are in progress. The broader fields of the internal secretion of the pancreas and the application of vital stains, such as azin dyes, to the study of the nature and the isolation of specific organ autolysins are being investigated by this department.

Other clinical investigations are being pursued on the nutritional effect and the absorption of subcutaneous oil injections in children, and the analysis of oil recovered from the subcutaneous tissue many months after injection. Studies are also being pursued in the basal metabolism and chemical blood findings in cases of malnutrition among older children. The latter work is being performed in collaboration with the Pediatric Department. Much of the work mentioned in last year's report has been completed, and the results published in various scientific journals.

During the past year the department of physiological chemistry has furnished an assistant trained in this department to take charge of the laboratory recently equipped and opened in the pediatric department. This is the first instance in the Hospital of the introduction of a special research laboratory in one of its clinical departments.

The Clinical-Pathological Conference held weekly attracts increasing numbers of physicians from without the Hospital because of the unique educational opportunities which they offer. Realizing the inadequate floor space now available for these conferences, the Hospital has arranged to enlarge the present room.

In the department of radiology both diagnostic and therapeutic work has been actively developed. In the diagnostic division there has been considerable advance in ventriculography and there have been particularly gratifying results in the study of the gall-bladder and its pathology. In the latter field improved technique in radiography itself, as well as its combination with the intravenous administration of tetrabrom-phenolphthalein, has aided us materially in demonstrating the gall-bladder.

Owing to better facilities cystoscopic work in combination with radiography has increased in volume, as has also fluoroscopic aid in bronchoscopy, oesophagoscopy and the reduction of fractures.

There has been added to the diagnostic division a radiographic museum which is fully equipped with illuminating boxes and cabinets for the storing of important and instructive roentgenograms. There is a projection apparatus for lantern slides and two cabinets for their proper storage. The sorting of new and old roentgenograms is going on quite actively and we expect to have the selection completed by the Fall of 1925. This museum will greatly enhance the value of our collection of roentgenograms which will become more readily available for study and teaching.

In the rebuilt therapeutic division, two new high voltage machines and the necessary accessories have been installed. One of the superficial therapy machines has been retained. To this equipment a quartz lamp and new high frequency apparatus have been added. Negotiations have been concluded whereby this department will also have a sufficient supply of radium emanations.

On February 1st, 1924, the rehabilitated division of radiotherapy was opened. The first month there were 52 patients to whom 23 superficial and 72 deep treatments were given. The work has since then increased so that at the end of the year there have been treated a total of 1,459 patients, of which 739 were new cases. The number of individual treatments has increased so that during the eleven months of 1924, 766 superficial and 2,032 deep treatments were given, thus making a total of 2,798 treatments. To these may be added 2,320 inspections, making a total of 5,118 visits by the patients. It is but natural to expect that during 1925 the number of treatments will increase, especially since a generous supply of radium will be available.

It is too early to speak of end results, but it can be truthfully stated that the majority of the patients suffering from malignant disease may have been greatly benefited, if not cured, and that the results were better than could have been attained by any other physical or chemical agent. In the superficial and non-malignant conditions our standard of therapeutic work has been maintained.

On the wards and the more definitely clinical services, the Pediatric Department re-organized its feeding program and with the change in the nutritional schedule, an attempt was made to establish a scientific basis for metabolic studies and to avoid waste of food. Intensive studies in metabolism are being made on patients who have suffered from infectious diseases. In addition, diabetes in children, periarteritis nodosa, studies of the nephroses, and fatty changes in the liver as well as purpura and rheumatic fever, have been studied with the hope of adding important information to the knowledge of these conditions. The functional tests of the liver are also being investigated in the Pediatric Department as well as transitory thyroid enlargement.

The chemical laboratory of the Pediatric Department has recently devoted itself to the study of glucose tolerance in children as well as in nephritis. This development of chemical activities in a department of the Hospital outside of the chemical laboratory, as mentioned above, is a new departure and is quite in line with the general scientific trend in clinical work. In years to come, every clinic and every department will be incomplete and behind the times unless it is equipped with all the laboratory facilities required for research.

In the Medical Department, the efforts have again been, in the main, concentrated upon studies of a few organs from different standpoints. Some of the investigations of diseases of the heart mentioned in the report of last year have been reported, others being in progress. The new type of endocarditis has been published, as has also, part of the electrocardiographic investigations of the type of so-called angina pectoris due to thrombosis of the coronary arteries. The morphologic studies of the blood in various forms of endocarditis are being continued and new methods are being used for the culture of the etiological agents. Clinical researches are being made of mild and recurrent forms of subacute bacterial endocarditis, and of the diagnosis of acute closure of the coronary arteries and of aneurism of the heart.

In the cardiographic laboratory, a number of new installations have been made. There are now available two electrocardiographs. An orthodiograph is now in active use, and soon the hot wire sphygmograph will be available for the study of arterial disease. Heart tones are being investigated by graphic methods. The clinical significance of the velocity of the pulse wave is being studied by means of the double wire electrocardiograph. An instrument has been devised for measuring edema. Its clinical value is to be determined. The electrocardiographic investigation of the various types of endocarditis will soon be published.

Studies of the remote effect of pregnancies on valvular disease, and of the effects of the menopause have been begun. The rate of congenital peripheral resistance as a causative factor in precocious hypertensive states has been made the subject of a publication.

Tumors of the lungs, which are so frequently encountered, are the subject of an exhaustive study—as well as pulmonary abscess. New light has been thrown on bronchial asthma by the studies of one of the staff, who, while abroad, found a substance in the sputum of asthmatics which has the property of contracting unstriated muscle.

The life history of ulcer of the stomach and duodenum is being investigated in connection with the Surgical Department, and also the constitutional factor in reproduction of these conditions. Other studies in progress are biliary drainage, the clinical significance of epigastric hernia, and the therapy of ulcerative colitis. In connection with the last-mentioned subject, the trial of new forms of treatment initiated elsewhere, should be noted, as well as a form of therapy introduced by one of the members of the department aimed at the cure of protozoal diseases of the intestines, by means of fluorescent substances. A possible heredity factor in complete rectal prolapse has been studied. The clinical value of new tests of liver function has been tested, and a report made on liver damage due to one of the substances used in such procedures.

A simple method for prescribing diabetic diets has been introduced. The oral administration of insulin is being attempted. Observations are being made on various types of glycosuria and their relation to hepatic and pancreatic function. Further studies on nephrosis and its relation to thyroid function are being carried on.

The studies on Graves' Syndrome are being actively prosecuted. The first 50 cases which received no special method of treatment have been observed for four years, and serve as a control group. Another series of cases was submitted to operative therapy, and is now being watched. A third series receives Lugol's solution prior to operation. In the metabolic laboratory, studies of diseases of metabolism and of the endocrines are being made. The number of estimations of basal metabolism is surprisingly high.

The diseases of the blood have occupied much attention. The undescribed type of disease of the spleen and lymph-nodes, alluded to in the report of last year, has been introduced to the profession. A trial is being made of the combination of fluorescent dyes and radio-therapy in the treatment of leukemia. The value of splenectomy in the cure of chronic purpura has been much more exhaustively confirmed. Other subjects that have been studied are the significance of bilirubin and urobilin in the excreta, macrophages in the blood current, the relationship of sodium citrate to the coagulability of the blood, and a new form of anemia. Chapters on blood transfusion and on bacterial endocarditis have been contributed to a standard text book of therapeutics.

Some of the members of the Medical Department are carrying out their main investigations in the Pathological Department. Such studies relate to pancreatic ferments, pancreatic function, the isolation and purification of antibodies, specific organ autolysins, and the etiology of diabetes.

Of general improvements, the following are of particular interest: The metabolic clinic in the Out-Patient Department has been reorganized, and now takes care of over 300 diabetic patients. A new food clinic has been instituted in which patients are taught the proper preparation of foods. A statistical study of food waste has been made by members of the Medical and of the Pediatric Departments. A follow-up clinic has been established for cases of peptic ulcer. Post-graduate instruction was given on the weekly formal ward rounds and in the regular courses offered to post-graduate students.

In the Neurological Department there have been further studies both in the treatment of encephalitis and dementia paralytica. The malarial treatment of the latter disease is being investigated intensively. Further work is being done on the localization of brain tumors in co-operation with the surgical division which devotes part of its activities to surgery of the nervous system. Studies are also being made in amaurotic family idiocy as well as in acute and chronic multiple sclerosis. Further studies are being made in the recognition of spinal cord tumors. Together with the Pathological Department, a study has been made of a newly recognized type of brain tumor.

The Mental Health Clinic has shown a distinct increase in activity. This clinic treats patients suffering from mental disorders of a functional type. Three hundred and fifty new cases were admitted and many hours have often been devoted to the study of a single patient. The results of the work in this clinic have often been extremely gratifying especially since the establishment of an Occupational-Therapy Department. An average daily attendance of nine patients in this therapy department has been maintained. As the chief of this clinic is also active in the Hospital, the work between the two departments—in the Hospital and in the Out-Patient Department—is well co-ordinated.

During the past year a few changes have taken place in the Department of Dermatology. The shifting of the Syphilitic Therapeutic Department to quarters adjoining the present Dermatological Diagnostic rooms has been a convenient change.

We are also equipping a small room for a histo-pathological laboratory for the exclusive use of that department, where microscopic studies of pathological specimens of the various skin diseases can be carried out; this room will also be equipped with a dark field apparatus for the early diagnosis of syphilis.

The monthly Clinical Conferences are now being held in the afternoon instead of the evening; this change is considered a success for the reason that daylight is so important in the study of skin diseases.

In the Surgical Division of the Hospital, the more intensive studies have, quite naturally, been made on the groups of diseases that are assigned to the four general surgical divisions. This grouping of cases has been in existence about ten years and when it was originally started it was thought that the pressure on each service of a large number of more or less intimately related cases would stimulate all members of the staff to original observations both as to diagnosis and treatment. On the various surgical services not only has work been done on the group cases but numerous studies have been made on the other types of surgical diseases that were treated on these divisions.

On one service a further study of the surgical treatment of exophthalmic goitre was carried out, some of the staff making special visits to the goitre centers for observation and study. An interesting study is also in progress concerning embryological defects in connection with thyroid gland development. Studies are being attempted in the end results of patients suffering from chronic appendicitis which will prove particularly instructive, and if we possessed at Mount Sinai an adequate follow-up system, this study would not tax the surgeons and their time to the extent that the present chaotic conditions necessitate. Studies were also made of gall-stone diseases in its various phases, and also some features of post-operative hemorrhages and diseases of the intestines.

On another surgical division further studies were made on the use of local anesthesia in cranial operations. Laboratory investigations on the significance of increase of intracranial pressure and the influence of drugs upon this were conducted. In addition, interesting studies were continued in the changes in the ventricular system in tumors of the brain and its bearing upon changes in the reflexes and the optic nerve. Of interest also are the new studies on the treatment of pre-senile gangrene with intravenous injections of hypertonic salt solution. Another phase of investigation is connected with the blood sugar content after injuries to the skull, as well as after operations upon the skull and brain. Moreover a pharmacological study is being carried out in connection with the use of adrenalin and cocain in shock.

On another surgical service there were studies made in connection with the non-surgical treatment of ureter stones and the complications which may occasionally follow the surgical removal of such stones. Silent kidney infections, which heretofore have been most difficult to recognize, have engaged the attention of the staff and new methods of recognizing these infections are being studied. An extensive study of malignant tumors of the kidney, covering a large series, was carried out, and, in connection with this, further studies were made in congenital deformities of the upper urinary tract. Disturbances caused by an enlarged prostate and the results of operative treatment of this condition covering a study of cases admitted to the Hospital over a long period of time, were completed. Further studies also in the radium and operative treatment of tumors of the bladder were continued so that at the present time the therapeutic measures to be employed in different types of bladder tumors are gradually becoming more definitely outlined and delimited. In addition to these more or less specialistic groups of studies, there have been studies on unusual intestinal neoplasms; on the infection of the blood stream and the spread of disease by surgical manipulations, as well as the development of more satisfactory methods in the operative management of cancer of the breast.

Another one of the surgical divisions has devoted especial attention to the radical cure of gastric and duodenal ulcers. A great deal of work has been done both clinically and experimentally, and some important contributions have been made to the knowledge of the treatment of this disease. Operative risks have been reduced and it is hoped that more satisfactory end results will be effected. In the radical cure of malignant diseases of the stomach and intestine, there has been considerable work with the result that there has been an increase in the range of operability. The service requires an experimental physiological and chemical research laboratory where experimental studies can be made of the diseases of the gastro-intestinal tract.

On the gynecological service, the entire staff has been most active and studies on the influence of the ovary, of basal metabolism and blood chemistry have been made. There have been further studies on diseased tubes and their relation to sterility, as well as studies on the relation of the various ductless glands to normal and abnormal bleeding. An interesting series of observations in connection with the treatment of inflammatory diseases by protein injections is under way.

The ophthalmological service has centered its attention principally upon the operative material that presented itself, in addition to the large volume of routine work in the Out-Patient Department, and the ward consultation work. A number of delicate plastic operations were performed for the correction of lid deformities, and attention was given to the more extended use of local anaesthesia in cases in which general anaesthesia had been customary. The acquisition of a Slit Lamp and Corneal Microscope has given the members of the service an opportunity to study the new fields of investigation uncovered by this wonderful instrument. During the past year frequent rounds were made on Saturday afternoons, at which the members of the Out-Patient Department were given an opportunity to examine the interesting ophthalmoscopic cases in the various wards of the hospital, thereby giving them the chance to see types of cases that they are not likely to meet with elsewhere. Another innovation of the past year was the organization of post-graduate courses in ophthalmoscopy in accordance with the plan adopted by the Trustees.

On the Otological Service there has been considerable co-operation with the Neurological Department in the study of borderline conditions. There have been studies made in the pathology of the labyrinth and further studies in sinus thrombosis.

On the Laryngological Service there has been considerable increase in activities and special studies have been made of certain uncommon diseases of the larynx. A new method for the application of radium in diseases of the esophagus is being worked out and the results may be improved by this new method.

The Orthopedic Department is being organized on a firm basis and it is expected to prove of great value to the other clinicians in the consultations on obscure conditions.

All the above studies, naturally, find their way into the medical literature and numerous articles have appeared in medical journals covering these investigations. Some are still unpublished as the work is not complete and they will appear in the near future.

It is only fair and proper in closing this report to call attention to some of the difficulties that face the staff of our Hospital.

One of the most important developments of modern medicine is the study of end results and the Medical Board has repeatedly urged upon the Board of Trustees the importance of this type of study. Unless we know what our therapeutic measures effect, we are liable to be groping in the dark and until the enlightened co-operation of the Board of Trustees is forthcoming, we can never expect to be in a position to give to our patients what we have proven to be the proper treatment. The hospital is, in a measure, a factory for the re-building of human parts, and unless the output is carefully analyzed and carefully controlled over a long period of time, it will always be questionable whether the repairs have been properly made. To carry out a project of this sort, a complete re-vamping of our record department as well as a much more elaborate social service organization will be found absolutely necessary. The Medical Board looks to the Board of Trustees for this co-operation and hopes to see these changes instituted within the current year.

EDWIN BEER, M.D.

President of the Medical Board.

ABSTRACT FROM CONSTITUTION

Section 8 of Article 4, referring to the establishment of special funds, reads as follows:

"An endowment for the establishing of any special fund may be accepted by a resolution of the Board of Trustees. Such fund may be created either for a special purpose, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to such purpose only, or under the name of one or more persons, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to the general purposes of the Hospital. Such endowment funds shall be kept by the Treasurer as special accounts. Contributions to existing funds may be made at any time, but no fund shall be created with an initial endowment of less than Ten Thousand Dollars."

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT

In previous annual reports of the Hospital, the work of the Out-Patient Department has received little attention apart from the presentation of the traditional statistics of attendance at morning and afternoon classes. The temptation to continue in the old manner is strong, for the work of the Out-Patient Department is so vast and so complicated that to depart from the relatively simple method of statistical summary and to attempt to do justice to the actual work of the department in a descriptive article is to undertake a laborious task. As Chairman of the Committee on Out-Patient Department, I propose, this year, to comment quite briefly on out-patient activities.

Patients in the Out-Patient Department are now divided, for diagnostic or therapeutic purposes, into many different groups. In the major departments, such as medicine, surgery, pediatrics, neurology, gynecology, eye, ear, nose and throat, dermatology, etc., both morning and afternoon classes are held. Certain special clinics confine themselves to either morning or afternoon. As the attendance in these special classes increases, duplicate classes must eventually be arranged for.

The morning attendance in 1924 was 76,871; the afternoon attendance was 104,634; and the total morning and afternoon attendance was 181,505. The Out-Patient Department was open 302 days in the year. The average number of physicians in attendance daily was 89, and the labors of this staff, more than 90% of whom serve without pay, were supported by a daily average attendance of 16 nurses, and of 16 volunteer aides enrolled with the assistance of the Social Service Auxiliary.

In commenting on the activities of the Hospital for the year 1924, the State Board of Charities remarked with evident satisfaction that "the reorganization of the medical staff, giving a unified staff to both hospital and dispensary, has been completed." The efforts of the Trustees to bring about this unification have been continued for a number of years, and the State Board was probably right in appraising the completion of this movement as an important accomplishment, worthy of historical record, for the policy of hospital and Out-Patient Department unification has placed at the disposal of our out-patients a large group of skilled internists and specialists whose services, under the ancient hospital regime, would have been available solely for the benefit of in-patients.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT

The Committee on Out-Patient Department is particularly grateful to those heads of clinical divisions of the Hospital who have shown a personal interest in the Out-Patient Department and who have been in regular attendance for purposes of consultation.

Part of the programme of the Committee on Medical Instruction, which has been engaged in post-graduate teaching during the past year, has been carried out in the dispensary. As in previous years, the major part of the activities of the Social Service Department has been in connection with dispensary cases. For the first time in the history of the Hospital, the Department of Dietetics has extended its interest to the Out-Patient Department, where systematic dietetic instruction is now given in suitable cases by a full-time dietitian assisted by volunteers, all working under the direction of a specialist in the treatment of metabolic diseases. A classroom and dietetics laboratory have been equipped, where instruction in food values and in the preparation of food is given to dispensary patients and to those responsible for their nourishment at home.

An important event is the completion of arrangements for the establishment of a dental clinic for children, but as the equipment of the new department has only just been installed, a record of actual performance in this division must be postponed until next year.

In the Throat Department it was the custom for years to perform the operation of tonsillectomy in the regular clinic rooms, without general anesthesia. The transfer of this work to the over-night ward in the children's clinic building has opened the way for the remodeling of the ear, nose and throat rooms, to accommodate them more satisfactorily to the present needs and programme of the department. An appropriation for this work has been authorized by the Board, and the necessary physical change is to be carried out during the coming summer.

The dispensary has been able to make free use of the laboratory and therapeutic facilities of the Hospital. Routine laboratory tests are carried out in the dispensary laboratory by paid laboratory workers who are under the direction of the Hospital Pathologist. In addition to these, however, the entire resources of the central laboratory, with its large staff of specialists and volunteers, are available for the benefit of dispensary patients. To a very considerable extent, the work of the Department of Radiology concerns itself with the diagnosis and treatment of dispensary patients.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT

Although funds have been lacking for the establishment of a comprehensive follow-up system in connection with the clinical services of the Hospital, it has been impossible to suppress the growing interest of members of the Hospital staff in the final results of the Hospital treatment, and the dispensary is increasingly becoming the scene for the reunion of former Hospital patients with members of the Hospital staff, who are thus enabled to check up the end results of Hospital treatment. This is but one of many tendencies to add to the pressure on the equipment of the dispensary, and the Committee on Out-Patient Department is beginning to look forward with increasing interest to the time when the space at its disposal for out-patient work may be sufficiently increased to satisfy present and future needs.

The establishment of a central record system, which was approved in principle by the Board of Trustees several years ago, has not yet been carried out, owing to the inability of the Hospital to obtain from Federation sufficient funds to make possible this extremely desirable improvement in method.

Respectfully submitted,

JACK W. SCHIFFER,
Chairman, Committee on Out-Patient Department.

REPORT OF MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL SCHOOL OF NURSING

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL:

I am glad to report a year of accomplishment and progress in connection with Mount Sinai Hospital School of Nursing. The opening of many new departments in the Hospital and the expansion of others, make necessary the development of a larger and stronger program for our School of Nursing.

On March 6th, 1925, the forty-fourth anniversary of our School of Nursing was celebrated, and the forty-second class of students, numbering 77, graduated—the largest in the history of the school. This class started with a membership of 133 students, but, as so frequently happens in all educational groups, many fell by the wayside during the long years of training. A study of the history of the class as a whole shows that of 56 students who failed to complete training, 46 of the number severed their connection with the school before the end of the first year, 22 doing so during the probationary period.

Those who are familiar with schools of nursing will agree that each graduating class represents the survival of the fittest and certainly this year's class is no exception to the rule; it consists of those who have had courage, ambition and untiring devotion to duty required in the daily life of the student nurse, with its endless repetition of difficult and often tiresome daily tasks.

During the past year 110 new students were enrolled, selected from the 1,100 or more applications and letters of inquiry received; 77% were of American birth, 12% Canadian and 10% from other countries; 73 of the students were high school graduates, 13 of that number having had from one to four years of college training.

The health record of the school during the past year shows that 1,168 days were lost through illness, an average of six days per student.

A brief survey of the census of the school for the past ten years shows that the lowest daily average of students (including probationers and affiliates) was reached during the year 1920, with an average of 149; in 1921 the average was 169 students. As with all other schools, this situation was due largely to the economic adjustment following the war. During the past few years, however, more normal conditions have prevailed and our school has been growing steadily until this year we have reached high water mark with a daily average of 268 students.

REPORT OF SCHOOL OF NURSING

In addition to this number our resident staff of graduate nurses brings our total resident nursing group to 330 plus a supplementary group of nurse helpers and orderlies of about 45. As in addition a daily average of from 140 to 160 private duty nurses or "specials" is maintained, a total nursing group of 515 persons daily is reached—a figure almost equal to the daily average of patients cared for.

During the past year this group has had the responsibility for the nursing care of over 13,000 patients in the Hospital proper and 190,000 ambulatory cases in the Out-Patient Department.

There have been more changes in the faculty and official staff of the school during the past year than at any time in the past ten years. Miss Rhoda Colwell, Operating Room Supervisor, and Miss Marjorie Bennett, Assistant Supervisor of the Out-Patient Department, each of whom had been with us for a period of over five years, were obliged to resign on account of ill health. Too much cannot be said of the faithful and conscientious service given by these two nurses. Their positions were filled by the appointment of Miss Mary Blue as Operating Room Supervisor and Miss Virginia Miller as Assistant Supervisor in the Out-Patient Department.

On October 1st Miss Margaret Caldwell, Night Supervisor of the Hospital for a period of over four years, resigned in order to accept a teaching position in the Department of Education of New York City.

Miss Selfridge, our Senior Instructor, resigned her position after two years' painstaking service in order to complete her work in the Department of Nursing and Health, Teachers' College. Miss Taylor, her assistant, resigned for the same purpose. The vacancy of Senior Instructor was filled by the appointment of Miss Alice Kurtz, a graduate of our own school. Miss Barrett, a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, also a graduate of that school of nursing, was appointed Assistant Instructor.

In September Miss Fannie M. Brooks resigned her position as Assistant Superintendent, and Miss Mary Brown, formerly Practical Instructor, was appointed to the vacancy, much to the happiness and satisfaction of the entire school. Miss Mae Reid, our Instructor of Probationers, was obliged to resign because of illness at home. We were fortunate enough to secure Miss Louise Arnold, a graduate of this school with many years of most valuable executive experience, to help out in this emergency. Mrs. Gladys Magee, the teaching dietitian for the past two years, also resigned during the past month in order to accept a more responsible position in another hospital. Miss Wood, Supervising Dietitian, has arranged to have Miss Annie Weeks, a graduate of Simmons College, formerly of the Mechanics Institute, Rochester, N. Y., take over this work.

Nursing in Mount Sinai Hospital is required to be of the high standard demanded by a deeply interested Hospital Board, an exacting medical staff, and a critical public. The education of a nurse should be a splendid training of hand, head and heart; of all the professions open to women today, this is probably the one that presents the strongest appeal; it is generally acknowledged to be the one in which the true woman can find her finest opportunity for service.

Since the establishment of our school in 1881, over 1,350 nurses have been graduated. A registry is maintained by the Hospital for its own graduates. A daily enrollment of 250 graduates of Mount Sinai Hospital has been maintained throughout the past year, during which time 6,153 calls for nurses have been received; 4,460, or approximately two-thirds of these calls, were responded to by our own graduates; 1,521 cases were furnished with nurses from outside registries, and for 172 cases it was impossible to find nurses, although every registry in the city is always reached in such cases.

Our generous Pleasure and Recreation Funds make possible many happy parties and dances.

The Alumnae Association continues to prosper. It has a membership at present of about 600 graduates. The Association has again unanimously voted the entire graduating class into full membership, waiving the payment of the initiation fee and the first year's membership dues.

On behalf of the school and its officials I voice our grateful appreciation of the many kindnesses showered on the students by members of the Hospital and Nursing School Board, both in large and small ways. Never has any school of nursing had such noble support or such splendid and loyal friends. When we reflect upon the gifts so magnanimously poured out for the benefit of our school during the past year by the Hospital and School of Nursing Boards, we are convinced that no school could ever do less than its very best with such a group of supporters and friends behind it.

To our Director, Dr. Goldwater, we wish to express our gratitude and appreciation for his valuable assistance in helping to solve many problems.

REPORT OF SCHOOL OF NURSING

To our Medical Staff—especially those who have given so much time and thought to the care of our sick nurses, and above all to Dr. Beck, we offer our grateful appreciation.

In closing this report for the year I take this occasion to pay a well-earned tribute to Miss Elizabeth A. Greener, our splendid Superintendent of Nurses, and her able graduate nurse assistants. Their loyalty and their devotion to duty are factors on which much of the success of our School of Nursing depends. We realize our good fortune in having such a group to lean on, and from the bottom of my heart I thank each member of the group for her understanding, sympathy and unfailing support.

HUGO BLUMENTHAL,

President.

THE LADIES' AUXILIARY SOCIETY

OFFICERS

MRS. EMIL FRENKEL.....	PRESIDENT
MRS. WILLIAM GOODMAN.....	VICE-PRESIDENT
MRS. E. L. SMITH.....	TREASURER PRO TEM
MRS. J. A. ARNOLD.....	SECRETARY

TO THE TRUSTEES OF MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL.

Gentlemen:

The years pass on, and it again becomes my pleasant task to report upon the activities of the Ladies' Auxiliary Society of Mount Sinai Hospital for the season ending 1925.

With the growth of the parent institution, the task of the Ladies' Auxiliary has proportionately increased, and it is not to be wondered at that the closing session of our weekly sewing meetings saw the completion of about 25% more work than was accomplished in former years. I am proud of my colleagues who made this record possible by their faithful attendance and their cheerful co-operation. Our Monday afternoons were a genuine pleasure to those ladies who found it convenient to give up a few hours to our labor of love, and I desire to express my deep appreciation and gratitude to one and all.

Financially, we had to struggle along as usual. We need a working capital of about $7,500. At present we have to borrow this sum from time to time from the Hospital funds. It is my earnest wish to see a fund established which will obviate the necessity of continually approaching your honorable board for assistance. If you have any suggestions to offer, regarding this matter, we would be only too grateful for your advice. Your board has been such a great help to us again and again, that I am sure you can devise ways and means to aid us in our difficulty.

May I express to you and especially to Mr. Klingenstein our sincere appreciation of your ever helpful advice and kindly co-operation.

And last, but by no means least, to the members of my own board, who so loyally and faithfully worked with me at all times, and also to our worthy Matron, Mrs. Altman, I wish to express my hearty thanks for all that they have done to make our weekly gatherings fulfill their purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

MALY R. FRENKEL,

President.

REPORT OF THE SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL:

The work of the Social Service Department has progressed favorably during the past year, as is evidenced by the following summary of its activities:

Our statistical report shows an increase of 595 new cases and 4,205 home visits over that of the previous year. The fact that 783 more cases were referred by physicians than last year proves that Social Service has been recognized as an integral part of medical work. Although there was an increase in the number of patients receiving convalescent care and in the number of co-operative visits, there has been a decrease in nursing visits, as many cases requiring bedside care are referred to the Henry Street Visiting Nurse Association.

With the tremendous increase in the number of cases we have found the Central Registry, which has been in operation for the past year, of great value. Each case is filed with all important social and medical facts, and we are trying to keep a family under the care of one worker, calling into consultation the workers of any other departments to which the patients may be referred. We are endeavoring in every way to centralize our work, and have arranged that much of the routine procedure, such as milk orders, referring patients for employment, convalescent care, etc., shall be taken care of in the main office. The opening of the Radio-Therapy Department, together with the large number of free X-rays, most of which require investigation into the economic condition of the patients, has tended to make the work so heavy that it became imperative to add another worker to our office force.

In order to acquaint the Medical Staff with our work we prepared a list of our most important activities, a copy of which was given to every physician through the chiefs of clinics and attending physicians in the Hospital. The increase in the number of cases referred to us by the doctors is in a measure due to this propaganda.

The offices of the Children's Social Service Department were moved from the main dispensary building to the basement of the children's dispensary. This has greatly facilitated the running of the department and has resulted in an appreciable saving of the workers' time due to their being in closer touch with the patients and the doctors.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

The method of discharging the children has been changed. The mother comes directly to the Children's Social Service office where she is given full instructions as to the care of the child while the latter is being dressed in the ward. The mother and child then go to the Hospital for dismissal.

At the instigation of one of the doctors a study was made to ascertain the reason why 109 out of 375 infants brought to the clinic came only once, with the following results:

- 24 Mothers stated the infants were cured
- 5 Mothers stated they were not told to return
- 8 Children went to other clinics
- 4 Children died
- 10 Families moved
- 3 Mothers were unable to bring the children to the clinic
- 14 Mothers had misunderstandings with the clinic personnel
- 37 Mothers were not found, nor was there any trace of the families ever having lived at the addresses given. It is not unlikely that many of the addresses were falsified in order to forestall investigation either for financial or social reasons, or else because of non-residence in the city, since the clinic is intended only for children living in New York.

The summer work was again carried on by the Children's Social Service Department. In all 925 children were sent to the country. This number includes the cardiac and tuberculosis children whose outings, however, were arranged for by their own departments.

The work of the Children's Health Class continued along the same lines as in previous years, with an average weekly attendance of about 80 mothers and children. It is very gratifying to note that the mothers come in greater numbers each year. The majority of the cases are behavior problems, and in order to understand a child's adjustment difficulties the worker must know the conditions of the home, neighborhood and school. It sometimes becomes necessary to remove the child from its family and give it a better opportunity in new surroundings.

Patients come from all parts of the city and in order to provide an adequate follow-up system, an effort is being made to develop the work along consultant lines. Thus if an agency refers a patient they are asked to assume the responsibility for supervision and returning the child to the clinic for re-examination.

We have adopted the filing system recommended by the Joint Committee on Methods of Preventing Delinquency, Inc., and are using the following classifications:

1. Active
2. Consultant
3. Co-operative
4. Negative

The mental tests are being given by volunteer psychiatrists from Columbia University and other colleges, but since they have not the time to give tests to many of the children who are recommended for them, we feel that the services of a paid psychiatrist would be of great assistance.

An experiment was carried on from March to June, consisting of bringing specially selected children to the clinic every Saturday morning and approaching them from the standpoint of their individual difficulties. Some needed habit formations, others were unable to adjust themselves in group work or play, and still others needed the stabilizing influence which could be brought to bear through this weekly contact. Out of this experiment a Therapeutic Kindergarten has recently developed, the necessary funds for which are provided by the Breitenbach Fund.

Except for a few modifications and improvements the general routine of the Children's Cardiac Clinic is unchanged. The larger quarters greatly facilitate the work as each physician now has his own examining room.

In February, 1924, the New York Heart Association opened a trade school for cardiac boys, and many of our patients are taking courses there. They are not only improving in health, but are learning trades for which they are adapted. Through the Vocational Guidance Committee of the Public Education Association we were able to procure scholarships for six of our cardiac children, thus making it possible for them to pursue their courses at trade or high schools. This committee was also helpful in securing positions for our children of working age.

During the past summer we again co-operated with the Federation for Child Study in organizing a play school for a group of 50 cardiac children at Public School 171. Through the generosity of the Heckscher Foundation our children were allowed the use of the pool and showers, which was a source of great benefit and pleasure to them.

We are still faced with the important problem of securing convalescent care for the cardiac with chorea and the cardiac of pre-school age, also for such patients who though not acutely ill still require the attention of a physician two or three times a week.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

With 100 more new cases in the Adult Cardiac Clinic this year than last, there are now three afternoon clinics per week instead of one, which enable the physicians not only to see a greater number of patients but to give them more individual attention.

Comparing the statistics of the Tuberculosis Clinic with those of 1923 we find a decrease of four new active cases and of 57 contact cases, due largely to the fact that many of the patients are men whose families are in Europe. There is also a decrease of 19 cases in the number of readmissions.

The nutrition class has been discontinued, as the mothers failed to co-operate, and many of these children have been placed in the day camp at the recreation pier, foot of 112th Street and East River.

The monthly conferences arranged by Dr. Taschman for the workers and doctors in the clinic have proven of the greatest value. All new cases and those ready for discharge are discussed from the point of view of their physical and social needs, so that a complete program can be worked out.

The work of the Orthopedic Department has been lessened to some extent, due to the fact that we are receiving splendid co-operation from the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children, who provide appliances, convalescent care and do much of the home visiting. However, the children are still under our supervision and our worker sees to it that the physicians' orders are carried out.

The corrective exercise class at the Heckscher Foundation has been discontinued and the group now meets in the Children's Health Class, where the work is being conducted along somewhat different lines under the direction of Dr. Selig and the orthopedic worker. The exercises are not as formal, and the mothers are being instructed to encourage the children to practice them at home.

No marked changes have taken place in the Luetic Clinic excepting that the social histories were revised. The workers encourage the patients to continue their treatments and to bring in contact cases for examination. We are still looking forward to the time when we shall have an evening clinic. Our most urgent need is a home for chronic cases and a convalescent home for non-infectious cases.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

The Metabolism Clinic was started in May under the direction of Dr. George Baehr, and applications for treatment are so numerous that patients can be seen by appointment only. In addition to the medical staff there are six volunteer clinic secretaries, one volunteer cooking teacher, a pupil nurse and full-time social worker; 270 patients have been treated in the clinic and 27 have been discharged for the following reasons:

- 2 Were found to have pentosuria
- 5 Were such mild cases they needed only slight supervision
- 12 Were discharged for lack of co-operation
- 3 Were referred to the clinic by mistake
- 4 Moved out of district and were referred to other clinics
- 1 Died

Much time is spent, both by the doctors and volunteers, in explaining to the patients their diets and the necessity for keeping them, as no results can be obtained without full co-operation on the patient's part.

In order to reach a larger group for dietary instruction Miss Bloch, our social worker in this department, organized a cooking class which meets once a week under the leadership of a volunteer. To this class all patients (and in the case of men some woman in the family) are invited to come and learn the baking of diabetic bread and wafers and the planning of proper menus. Very few Jewish people understand how to cook green vegetables, and special stress is laid upon the variety of ways in which they can be prepared, so as to minimize the monotony of the prescribed meals. To make the checking up of diets as accurate as possible and to teach the patients the size of the portions allowed, scales are loaned to individuals for varying lengths of time. Whenever possible a deposit is required for the scales so as to insure their more careful handling.

Of the numerous social problems that must be met the two that present the greatest difficulty are those of employment and convalescent care. Many of the more severe cases can only do part time work, and there are but few opportunities for self-support open to them. On the other hand, none of the existing convalescent homes will accept diabetic patients because of the labor involved in preparing special diets.

The extension of the work of the Mental Health Class has brought with it an increased demand for social service co-operation and supervision of patients in their homes. Experience has demonstrated that it is frequently possible to avoid commitment of patients to state hospitals and to restore many of the less severe patients to former efficiency and social adaptability. The amount of care and attention required in handling these cases is such that the number of persons under the direction of a worker must necessarily be limited. As only 19% of the total number of patients could be followed up by the one worker in the clinic, we hope in the course of the year to augment our staff sufficiently to meet this problem more adequately.

In response to the persistent requests of the physicians an Occupational Therapy Class was inaugurated under the direction of Miss Margaret Emery, and has been operating successfully for eight months. As far as we know this is the only occupational therapy class for mental cases in an out-patient department in New York City. It began with a registration of eight patients and an average daily attendance of four, while the present enrollment is 25 with an average daily attendance of nine. A total of 58 patients, ranging from 14 to 48 years, have attended the class, and all of them have shown a great interest in their work. Sales of articles made amounted to $90.25 from January to October. The patient receives one-third of the amount for which an article is sold, the balance being used to buy materials. We hope eventually to extend the work of the Occupational Therapy Class into the wards of the Hospital.

The Chairman on Employment reports that out of 330 applicants, 153 were placed through 16 co-operating employment bureaus and that 45 applicants found work without our assistance. The decrease in the number of people referred for employment during the year is due to the fact that only those patients were sent to agencies who were suitable and ready for work. Other plans were made for those not eligible.

It is particularly gratifying to report that there are 70 volunteers working in the various departments, an increase of 20 over last year's number. Several physicians and surgeons have been supplied with follow-up workers, two volunteers assist with the occupational therapy work and four others give asthmatic tests both in the adult and children's clinics. A file in the main office with the name, address and assigned duty of each volunteer has proved very helpful.

All workers in the Social Service Department, as well as volunteers, have been requested to wear linen uniforms while on duty, not only for sanitary reasons but also for the dignity which these lend to their appearance.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

The Junior Committee again distributed flowers and toys in the wards and generously contributed funds for a victrola and a holiday party for the children in the Health Class.

We are constantly trying to broaden the experience in Social Service work which the pupil nurses receive and to make their course more interesting. Aside from the usual observation trips we have arranged for them to spend an entire day with the Henry Street Visiting Nurse Association, several days with the Department of Health nurses, and negotiations are under way for them to spend two full days with the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. In addition to the weekly case conferences, four talks on case work and one on record keeping will be added. The physicians have again been most helpful in giving the pupil nurses talks on special subjects.

The following lectures were arranged for by our department for the School of Nursing, and we are very grateful to the speakers who so kindly volunteered their services.

“Principles of Modern Social Work Applied”—

Mr Wm. H. Matthews, Director, Department of Family Welfare, Association for Improving Condition of the Poor.

“Industrial Hygiene”—

Dr. Leland Cofer, Director, Division of Industrial Hygiene, New York State Department of Labor.

“Delinquency and Crime”—

Dr. Katherine B. Davis, Secretary, American Social Hygiene Association.

“General Introduction to Public Health”—

Dr. Haven Emerson, Department of Public Health Administration, Columbia University.

“A Study of Home Problems from the Point of View of the Public Health Worker and the Social Service Worker”—

Miss Wales, Henry Street Settlement.

“Psychology of Childhood”—

Dr. Ira S. Wile, Chief, Children's Health Class, Mount Sinai Hospital.

“Hospital Social Service”—

Dr. Sidney Goldstein, Director of Medical Social Service, Free Synagogue.

REPORT OF SOCIAL SERVICE AUXILIARY

We have been very fortunate in receiving excellent co-operation from the relief organizations and various convalescent homes, and I wish to voice the appreciation of the Social Service Department for the assistance which they render in the rehabilitation of our patients.

In the absence of our President, Mrs. Cook, I wish particularly to express my appreciation to Dr. Goldwater for his unflagging interest in our activities, to Miss Lissauer and her staff for their conscientious attention to the work which they are so instrumental in developing, and to each and every one of the members of our auxiliary for their loyal support and co-operation.

Respectfully submitted,

GERTRUDE W. BORG,

Acting President of the Social Service Auxiliary.

REPORT OF CLOTHING COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR 1924

It is always a pleasure in giving my report to be able to say that our various Sewing Circles have kept up their interest and have remained our friends. The plan has changed a bit, and very little sewing is being done. In fact, Mrs. Smith's group and Mrs. Prince's knitting group are the only ones who do actual work. The others either buy the things we need or give us the money and allow us to buy what we need as we need it. This change in program affects Mrs. Rosenthal's mountain group the most, as they have heretofore given us their finished articles at the beginning of the year and we gradually used them up. This year, however, they gave us the money, and as we only buy things as we need them the expenditure and number of articles makes a poor showing on the report. This is unfortunate, as the group has shown quite as much interest and has been just as loyal as in past years.

Mrs. Smith's group continued giving the complete outfits to Surprise Lake Camp boys and also gave 130 articles to the general Social Service work. The detailed account of each group's donations and expenditures follows. They gave a total of 1,393 articles at an expense of $1,285.06.

From general funds we spent $265.15 on 158 articles. Of these, 70 articles were shoes which cost $166.25. The Free Shoe Fund offered us 50 pairs of shoes, but we were only able to avail ourselves of 20 pairs, as it is always very difficult to get the correct sizes, and as it often takes a week or ten days before we can get the shoes we are unable to take all that we are offered.

I want to take this opportunity to thank the various groups for their continued loyalty to the Social Service Department.

Respectfully submitted,
EDITH F. BAERWALD.

RECEPTION ROOMS — PRIVATE PAVILION

CORRIDOR IN PRIVATE PAVILION

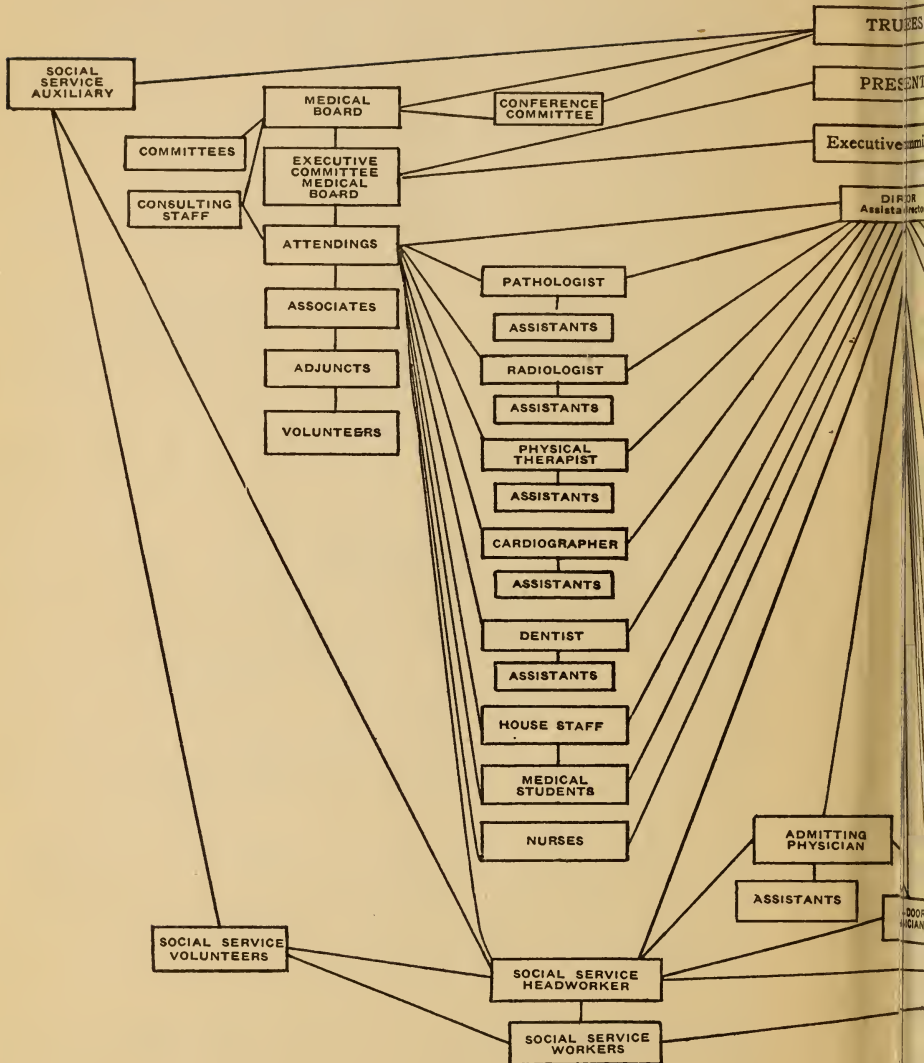

Extracts from the Constitution on Endowed Beds and Endowments

- A Contribution of $2,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Life Bed. Such a contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the general wards of the main Hospital, free of charge.
- A Contribution of $3,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Memorial Bed. Such a contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the main Hospital free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by the said donor in his or her last will and testament, or by any other instrument under seal. In the event of such successor being appointed, the rights hereinbefore mentioned shall continue for a period of not over fifty years from the date of such contribution—such period, however, not to end before ten years from the death of the donor.
- A Contribution of $5,000 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Perpetual Bed in the Children's Pavilion. Such Contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the wards of the Children's Pavilion, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by said donor in his or her last will and testament or by any other instrument under seal.
- A Contribution of $7,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Perpetual Bed, but where, under the provision of any will executed prior to March 20, 1921, the sum of $5,000 or more is bequeathed to the Hospital in payment of any Perpetual Bed, the Board of Trustees may, at their option, accept such sum in payment of such Perpetual Bed. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the general wards of the main Hospital, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by said donor in his or her last will and testament, or by any other instrument under seal.
- When a corporation is the donor, the privilege shall expire at the end of twenty-five years from the date of such contribution.
- Tablets to commemorate the endowment of Life and Memorial Beds shall be placed in the ward selected by the donor, subject to the rules of the Hospital. Tablets for Life Beds shall be maintained during the life of the donor, tablets for Memorial Beds for a period not beyond fifty years from the date of their endowment, such a period, however, not to end before ten years from the death of the donor. The endowment of a Perpetual Bed shall entitle the donor, or his legal representative, to have a tablet placed in the ward selected by him, or by them, or to have the endowment recorded on a tablet provided for that purpose in the corridor of the Hospital; such tablets shall be maintained in perpetuity.
- A donor may change a Life Bed endowed by him or her to a Memorial Bed by making an additional contribution of $1,000, or to a Perpetual Bed by making an additional contribution of $5,000, or may change a Memorial Bed to a Perpetual Bed by making an additional contribution of $4,000.

No patient shall occupy a Life, Memorial or Perpetual Bed unless he shall comply with the current rules of the Hospital and be a proper subject for treatment according to its regulations.

An endowment for the establishing of any special fund may be accepted by a resolution of the Board of Trustees. Such fund may be created either for a special purpose, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to such purpose only, or under the name of one or more persons, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to the general purposes of the Hospital. Such endowment funds shall be kept by the Treasurer as special accounts. Contributions to existing funds may be made at any time, but no funds shall be created with an initial endowment of less than Ten Thousand Dollars.
